

A. C. Bosser, Former City Attorney, Dies

Had Practiced in Appleton 45 Years;
Services Monday

Alfred C. Bosser, 75, 1320 Oakcrest Court, Appleton city attorney from 1924 to 1938 and an attorney in Appleton for more than 45 years, died about 11:30 Wednesday morning while a passenger in his car driven by his wife.

Mrs. Bosser said they were returning from a visit with a daughter, Mrs. William Joyce in East Lansing, Mich. They had stayed in Milwaukee Tuesday night and were traveling north between Fond du Lac and Oshkosh when Mr. Bosser died unexpectedly.

Born April 27, 1890 in Appleton, he went to Chicago and worked in a clothing manufacturing firm at the age of 17. He completed his high school education and studied law at night while working during the day, receiving his L.L.B. degree from Loyola University in Chicago in 1914. He was honored as a 50-year graduate of Loyola in 1964. He received his diploma in commerce from Northwestern University in 1917.

Training Program

After being one of the first men to complete the then new officers' training program, he was commissioned a lieutenant in the U.S. Army and served for over two years. He started his law practice in September of 1919. He was a member of the firm of Benton, Bosser, Fulton, Menn and Neils.

He was active in the American Legion, serving as service officer for Johnston-Blessman Post for more than 25 years. He also was a member of the American Bar Association, Wisconsin and Outagamie Bar Associations.

Survivors are the widow; two daughters, a son, two sisters, and seven grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at Mount Olive Lutheran Church. Friends may call at the Wichmann Funeral Home from 3 to 9 p.m. Sunday and at the church after 10 a.m. Monday. A memorial fund is being established.

Extinguish Fire Aboard Ammo Carrier

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A stubborn fire that burned for four days in the hold of a ship carrying 127 tons of small arms ammunition, was extinguished today.

The Coast Guard said the water level in the flooded ship was above the ammunition and the cargo which had been burning, and all danger had passed. No injuries were reported. Estimates of damage to the ship and its cargo were not immediately available.

The No. 3 hold of the Neva West was flooded after the vessel was grounded 30 miles down the Mississippi River from New Orleans. The ammunition and a cargo of hops were stored in the hold.

Firemen and members of the crew have been fighting the fire since the ship entered the Mississippi River Sunday.

Little Strike Progress

Baraboo Powder Plant to Reopen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talks say how low gunpowder stocks have dwindled in the 30-day East Alton strike, but warned of a critical shortage unless there was a settlement soon.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Wednesday the national interest demanded an immediate settlement before the day was out, but the talks wore on into today, dashing earlier optimism.

Expect End
Wirtz said that "in theory" U.S. forces in Viet Nam could run out of ammunition eventually unless there was a settlement, but that he expected an end to the strike before any shortage developed.

The AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists represents 3,800 of the 4,200 striking Olin Mathieson workers. The AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Employees Trade Council represent the rest.

Simkin, in calling the two smaller unions to Washington Wednesday night, had reported "some progress" with the machinists, who have been negotiating here under heavy federal pressure since Monday.

Although President Johnson has not publicly stepped into the dispute, he was reported prepared to halt the strike for 80 days with a Taft-Hartley court injunction if necessary as a last resort to prevent an ammunition shortage.

Astronauts of Gemini Flight Tell World of History-Making Voyage

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — The astronauts of Gemini 7 — who demonstrated man can equal the machine in space — met with the astronauts of Gemini 6 today to tell the public of their exciting flights that put the United States a step closer to someday reaching the moon.

The four spacemen who staged the world's first space rendezvous sat side by side at a news conference in the Manned Spacecraft Center's main auditorium.

Gemini 7's pilots, Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., and the Gemini 6 crew, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, had America's most dramatic and important space venture to describe.

Borman and Lovell circled the globe 206 times during 14 days in space, proving to doctors' satisfaction man could adequately adapt to long voyages in weightlessness. They returned to earth Dec. 18.

"Man has demonstrated he has the ability to equal the machine in space," Dr. Charles A. Berry, the flight surgeon, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Berkeley, Calif., Wednesday night in describing the Gemini 6 flight.

And, Schirra and Stafford successfully demonstrated the technique of space rendezvous with another orbiting vehicle — a maneuver vital on a moon journey — by catching and flying in formation with Gemini 7 for about seven hours Dec. 15.

Air Moratorium Continues

Viet Cong Strike in Three Places in Show of Muscle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong struck today in and around Saigon, within the shadow of the big U.S. Marine base at Da Nang and near the Cambodian frontier. The stepped-up demonstration of their prowess came on the seventh day of the moratorium in the U.S. air war against the Communist North.

New evidence of Communist terror tactics was seen in the disclosure by a U.S. military spokesman that three captured U.S. Marines and eight South Vietnamese soldiers had been murdered after their capture in Quang Ngai Province on Dec. 16. The bodies were found in shallow graves and appeared to have been shot repeatedly in the head at close range.

Hit in Head

The spokesman attributed the slayings to the 18th North Vietnamese Regiment in the area and said one of the victims — whose nationality was not disclosed — had been struck in the head with a sharp instrument.

The U.S. spokesman said the three Marines and their Vietnamese comrades who were executed were captured during a hunt for the North Vietnamese regiment near Ba To, in the hills 20 miles south of Quang Ngai City and 320 miles northeast of Saigon.

The bodies were discovered four days later in an isolated area by a body recovery squad. The squad also found the graves of an American Special Forces sergeant and two Vietnamese soldiers but the spokesman said they apparently had died of combat wounds.

In Saigon, a Vietnamese journalist whose pro-American articles brought him threats from the Viet Cong was shot to death this afternoon as he rode home by bicycle. Police said the newsman, Tu Chong, 35, of the daily newspaper Chinh Luan, was the first Saigon newspaperman the Communists had assassinated. The killer escaped.

Before dawn 500 Viet Cong drove a South Vietnamese militia company from a government stronghold only 4 miles from the outer defenses of the big Marine base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the third time in 10 weeks that the Communists had overrun Hill 60. Three companies of Vietnamese rangers tried to move in on the hill this afternoon but were pinned down by automatic weapons and mortars. Heavy rains prevented air strikes, but artillery pounded the Viet Cong. In the western jungles of Chau Doc, along the Cambodian border, the Viet Cong tore into a Vietnamese company at an outpost, inflicted heavy casualties and came back an hour later to hit this one and a militia post in the vicinity. They poured 50-caliber machine-gun fire in a steady drone, then slipped away with some parting shots at flare planes.

Communist forces were on the move on the waterways 15 to 25 miles southeast of Saigon itself but were caught by three armed U.S. Army helicopters. In a running battle, the helicopters sank five sampans and one barge and killed eight Viet Cong, a spokesman reported.

Renew Attacks
The Reds renewed mortar and infantry attacks in Quang Ngai province 60 miles south of Da Nang after overrunning the district town of Minh Long Wednesday. Artillery and 42 tactical air strikes were directed against the Communists. Reports said the area thronged with Viet Cong.

A serious terrorist incident was narrowly averted when police discovered four mines planted in a basket of fruit in a crowded bus depot in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter.

With the bombing pause nearly a week old, a U.S. military spokesman reported: "There is no change at all in the situation on the lull in the bombings of North Viet Nam."

The air moratorium began early on Christmas Eve and now exceeds the suspension of air raids in May. Hanoi broadcasts today did not acknowledge the bombing lull but instead emphasized reports of the unabated U.S. and South Vietnamese air action against the guerrillas in the South. These attacks "obviously contrast with U.S. authorities' allegations of peace and negotiations," one broadcast said.

Photographic Missions
U.S. sources in Washington said that American Air Force and Navy photographic planes are continuing to range over North Vietnamese territory as a

Canadians Importing Red Weapons

Dealers Report
Peking Air Rifles
Better Than U. S.

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada is importing Communist arms, but they're sporting goods, no military kind. Dealers say Peking's air rifles are better than American models.

More than 16,000 rifles, shotguns, pistols, revolvers and air rifles were imported from Communist countries during the first half of 1965, according to government trade figures made public this week.

The total value was only $66,044, a negligible part of the $4,543,679 worth of such imports from all countries. The Communist arms came from Czechoslovakia, Red China, East Germany, Hungary and the Soviet Union. No Communist countries are listed among Canada's suppliers of nonsecret military weapons and ordnance.

Good Sales

Premier Moro Gets Fanfani Job

ROME (AP) — President Giuseppe Saragat today named Premier Aldo Moro to take over the additional portfolio of foreign minister from Amintore Fanfani, who resigned.

Saragat acted as demands rose from government opponents for Moro's entire center-left coalition to resign over the Fanfani crisis, born of what critics called the foreign minister's amateurish handling of a North Vietnamese peace feeler.

President Breaks Long Period of Quiet to Tell Of U. S.-Canada Mission

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The White House announced today another presidential peace mission—this one to Canada — and indicated others would be forthcoming as part of an effort to emphasize the nation's quest for peace in Viet Nam.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, announced that McGeorge Bundy, President Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs, flew secretly to Ottawa Wednesday night for a meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Johnson planned to confer by telephone with Pearson later today, Moyers said. Canada, along with Poland and India, is a member of the International Control Commission in Viet Nam.

Breaks Silence

Breaking a prolonged White House silence on obviously coordinated moves to mount an American peace offensive, Moyers said the recent comings and goings of American diplomats were connected with an effort to emphasize this country's peaceful objectives.

These included a call by U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg on Pope Paul VI and a European trip by roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman which took him first to Warsaw, Poland, and today to Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Moyers said more ambassadorial travels were likely, particularly by Harriman.

"The President in the last few weeks," he said, "has felt it was especially appropriate for more leaders of the world to know his views on Asia."

Moyers said that "peace remains the foremost objective of the United States in Asia and... everything this administration is doing is designed to bring about conditions in which peace is possible."

He added: "We have a genuine desire to cooperate with anyone to whom peace is the desired goal that it is with us."

Joseph Laitin, assistant press secretary, had been able to give little information when asked earlier about the ambassadorial visits.

Presidential envoys W. Averell Harriman and Arthur J. Goldberg paid surprise calls at Warsaw and the Vatican, and were reported ready to carry the U.S. peace bid to other capitals before returning to America.

Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, met for one hour Wednesday with Pope Paul VI after arriving secretly aboard a presidential jet.

He told newsmen today that Johnson shared the Pope's desire to move "this grave conflict from the battlefield to the bargaining table where ultimately it will have to be resolved."

Report to LBJ
He also described his trip as an "effort to re-emphasize the U.S. willingness to do all it can for peace," and said he would report the Pope's view only to the President.

Goldberg was to leave Rome tonight after talks with Premier Aldo Moro and other Italian officials.

He wouldn't disclose his next destination.

Roving Ambassador Harriman arrived unannounced in Warsaw aboard a U.S. Air Force jet and promptly met with Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki.

The U.S. Embassy said Harriman, at Johnson's request, gave the Polish government Washington's views on the Viet Nam situation.

Today, he spent two hours with Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka, but told newsmen only that their session included talk of the past.

"We are old," he said. "We knew each other during the war."

Later in the day, Harriman left for Belgrade, capital of Communist Yugoslavia, in his quest for ways to end the fighting in Viet Nam.

Yugoslavia is leader of a group of nonaligned nations favoring Viet Nam negotiations. Poland has relations with Communist North Viet Nam and is on the three-national International Commission for the Control of Arms.

Ho Tells Vatican U. S. Seeks War

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican sources said today a message from President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam to Pope Paul VI accusing U.S. leaders of seeking war instead of peace has been received here. The message has put a damper on hopes for negotiations.

The sources said the message from Hanoi came as U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg arrived Wednesday on his special mission to the pontiff. They reported the message "is being carefully studied."

Labor Department Report

Living Costs Up Again in November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs, rising at the fastest rate in seven years, went up another two-tenths of one per cent last month, the Labor Department said today.

Prices were higher for all major items — including housing, clothing, transportation and medical care — except food, which held steady.

The increase brought the government's consumer price index to 110.6. The figure means it cost $11.06 in November to purchase items worth $10 in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

Hopes to Hold
The rise in typical family living costs brought the value of a 1957-59 dollar down to 90.4 cents.

Despite the record high level of the index, Deputy Commissioner Robert J. Myers of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said there was reason to hope that future price rises could be held to moderate levels.

He said the November increase bucked a seasonal trend in which prices usually hold steady and that a further increase could be expected when December figures are all in.

"This is a real increase," Myers said of the November rise.

Average after-tax earnings of factory workers were at an all-time high of $98.26 a week for workers with three dependents and $90.50 for single workers.

Consumer prices were up 1.7 per cent above November a year ago, compared with an annual rate of increase of 1.2 per cent over the previous five years.

Highest Rate
The 1.7 per cent figure was the highest annual rate of increase since 1958, when prices went up 2.8 per cent over the year.

Myers said he did not believe the war in Viet Nam was exerting a very important influence on consumer prices.

He added, "I think it is very important to keep watching prices because of the psychological situation." He said he meant it was unwise to become accustomed to increases.

More than 200,000 workers with cost-of-living clauses in their labor contracts will receive wage increases ranging from 1 to 3 cents per hour because of the November rise in the index.

Johnny Appleseed Stamp Is Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special postage stamp commemorating the feats of Johnny Appleseed will be issued in Leominster, Mass., next Sept. 24.

This first issue of an American folklore series of stamps will honor a man reputed to have traversed 100,000 square miles between Massachusetts and Missouri planting apple tree seeds and seedlings.

Leominster was chosen for the first day issue of the five-cent stamp because it is the birthplace of John Chapman, the original Johnny Appleseed. Leominster records show he was born there in 1774 and died in 1845.

Christmas Year-Round Effort For Elks Members and Wives

Think you have a long Christmas list? Almost as soon as one Christmas ends, members of Appleton Elks Lodge 337 are busy making preparations for the next. The real burst of speed, however, doesn't start until late October.

This season the Elks members and their wives in the Elks Ladies group provided for 53 families in Outagamie County. They started planning a year ago, checking their list of names and tallying up whatever funds were left to launch another Christmas.

In July representatives of the group visit Zwicker Knitting Mills, which donates a new pair of mittens to each child on the Elks Club Christmas list. Late in October they take their list from the previous year, with new names added, to the Salvation Army for clearance. The Army checks locations of the families and continuing need.

Women Begin

In November the Elks Ladies take up their part of the work. Each member is assessed a small fee to help pay for toys. Then the women buy for each child, spending their funds wherever they can get the best prices. By the time they buy, they know the ages of each child in the family, and they purchase so that no two receive duplicate gifts. Each present is wrapped and tagged.

The first Saturday in December is traditionally set aside by the Elks for their Charity Ball. Each member is asked to buy two tickets, whether he plans to attend the party or not. Proceeds are used to stock the baskets.

Into each family's basket goes a frozen chicken, canned goods, cranberries, celery, bananas, nuts, candy, butter, coffee, flour and gelatin dessert. Each family received at least four quarts of milk and two loaves of bread.

On Their Way

Just before the holiday, with the spirit of the season upon them, the men of the Elks gathered to fill the boxes and set out on their delivery mission. About 35 worked at driving their sleighs through Outagamie County this year. Working in pairs, they bestowed their gifts in Seymour, West DePere, Shioclon, Black Creek, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Appleton, Combined Locks and Little Chute. It sometimes took three trips back to the cars to bring in their special holiday wish to a family.

Mrs. Ralph L. Acker was chairman of the Elks Ladies welfare this year. Heading the men's part of the project were co-chairmen Steve Landig and Mr. Acker.

All But Two

This year the group found it impossible to deliver only two of their baskets. When a family has moved, the group works through the power and telephone utilities to try to locate them. When they cannot, the food is given to the Salvation Army for distribution and the toys are saved for next year.

And a new Christmas is already in the works, for now the committee is again checking names and counting a small surplus. It's a start on another happy holiday for someone.

Each Basket must have items to satisfy the needs of a particular family. The boxes of toys are wrapped separately, with the family name inside so that the box may be paired with the food basket. Older girls receive gifts of perfume and jewelry. Younger children are given toys. Above, the men pack food boxes just before the holiday. At left, Raymond J. Schumacher and Karl Knuth bestow their boxes at the home of one of the families on their list. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Winter Warm-Up Fare

With younger members of the family working up appetites on skating, skiing and sleigh ride parties, not to mention dad's energy-sapping bouts with the snow shovel, hearty suppers to warm the 'innards' and supply depleted reserves are a must.

Casseroles fill the bill admirably these crisp wintry evenings. Here are some interesting casserole suggestions which combat the cold and delight the palate simultaneously.

Rice and Sausage Casserole

1 lb. link sausages
4 tbsp. butter
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped green peppers
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1½ cups uncooked rice
2 tbsp. steak sauce
2 cans (10½ oz.) chicken broth
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Cut sausages in two-inch pieces, brown in large pan. Remove from pan, pour off fat. Melt butter, saute onions, peppers, and mushrooms in pan, until light golden brown. In large casserole, mix together vegetables, sausages, rice, steak sauce, broth, salt and pepper.

Cover and bake in medium oven (325 degrees) for one hour. Serves four-six.

Brandied Chicken With Fruit

1 3 lb. chicken (quartered)
¼ cup butter (melted)
1 tbsp. steak sauce
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup brandy
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup fresh or drained, canned dark, sweet cherries
6 apricots (fresh or canned) sliced in half

Wash chicken; dry. In large pan, on top of stove, brown chicken in mixture of butter and steak sauce. Mix together remaining ingredients, pour over chicken. Cover and cook slowly 30 minutes. Place chicken in shallow baking dish, pour sauce over. Add fruit. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) uncovered for 30-45 minutes, until fruit and sauce become brown and glazed, and chicken is tender. Serves four.

2 cups cooked Hubbard Squash, mashed
4 tbsp. melted butter
2 tsp. cream
2 tsp. brown sugar
¼ tsp. salt

¼ tsp. pepper
1 tbsp. steak sauce
¼ tsp. ginger
¼ cup chopped pecans

Blend all ingredients thoroughly, reserving ¼ cup pecans. Place in buttered casserole, sprinkle with remaining nuts. Bake about 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves four.

Potato 'N Egg Casserole m3a

6 medium potatoes
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. steak sauce
½ cup hot milk
3 tbsp. melted butter
6 eggs
dash of paprika
Grated cheese

Scrub potatoes; pare, cover with boiling salted water. Cover pan. Boil 20-30 minutes, until tender. Drain and mash well. Season with salt and steak sauce. Add hot milk and butter, beat until fluffy. Place in greased baking dish. Make six hollows on top of potatoes, and break an egg carefully in each. Sprinkle with paprika and grated cheese. Bake in 450 degree oven for eight - ten minutes, until eggs are done. Serves six. (This is delicious with a hollandaise or horseradish sauce.)

New Year's Resolution To Last Through Life

"Resolved, that in 1966 I will take precautions to reduce my children's risk of heart attack in their adult years."

This resolution was proposed for the New Year today by the Wisconsin Heart Association, which pointed out that proper heart and health habits formed early in life can make the difference between a high or low risk of heart attack in middle age.

All parents were asked to cooperate in a risk-reducing regime by taking these specific steps:

Get The Facts
Get the basic facts about heart disease from the Wisconsin Heart Association and pass them on to your children.

Take your children to see the doctor regularly, promoting the idea of periodic physical examinations.

Help your children form good diet habits. Serve less saturated fat and substitute unsaturated fat wherever possible. Serve fewer cholesterol-rich foods. These are important safeguards against hardening of the arteries (atherosclerosis), which sets the stage for heart attack.

Avoid Overeating

Discourage overeating and don't "push seconds". Remember, the most stubborn causes of obesity are those established in childhood. Obesity raises the adult's chance of getting high blood pressure and diabetes — both heart attack risk factors.

Encourage youngsters to keep physically fit by participating in active sports and other forms of regular exercise.

Teach them that smoking cigarettes is bad for their health, and show that you mean it, by not smoking yourself. Cigarette smokers run twice the risk of non-smokers of having a heart attack.

Parents Will Profit, Too

While applying these safeguards for their children's health, the Heart Association said, parents will profit by reducing their own risk as well.

The Association noted that although no hard and fast guarantees can be made to any individual one's chances are improved statistically when any or all of the factors conducive to heart attacks are minimized.

Reducing the risk of heart attack, largest single cause of mortality in the nation, which accounts for more than 500,000 deaths in this country each year, will be the major educational emphasis of the 1966 Heart Fund Campaign, which is to be conducted nationally throughout February.

Hot Shrimp Dip is a delicious blend of cottage cheese, rich sour cream and salad dressing. A fleck of garlic salt and a dash of soy sauce add a bit of zip.

1½ cups (12 oz.) cottage cheese
¼ cup sour cream

Green Bay was invaded Monday and Tuesday by a group of shouting, blade-wielding Scouts. Center of the attack was the Arena, where the first wave was deployed 600 strong Monday. Troops left Appleton by motor transport at noon and reached their destination in time for the 1 to 3 p.m. melee. They were fortified en route and during the ensuing hours by food from the home front.

There were 50 troops involved in the occupation. The first wave, Monday, retired after a successful maneuver. Reinforcements, about 300 of them, were sent in a wave of nine vehicles Tuesday. The entire operation was supervised by 135 trained leaders, who took charge and prevented untoward incidents.

Uniformed officers supervised the assemblage of troops and escorted the Scouts to the highway for both excursions.

Scouts Move on Their Stomachs, and the troops that made the conquest of the Green Bay Arena Monday and Tuesday were not about to prove exceptions. Checking rations are Grace and Diane Boucher and Linda Kugler. At left, Cathy Reimer waits for a fellow Scout as the troops prepare to leave.

Yeast Baking on the Rise

Are you tempted to treat guests to homemade dinner rolls and the family to coffee cake on Sunday morning? Baking with yeast using today's standardized ingredients and methods is usually successful and satisfying, according to foods and nutrition specialists at the University of Wisconsin.

The family that eats lots of bread and wants to cut down food costs can save by making the week's supply of bread. Making it yourself lets you use whole grain or other cereals of your choice.

To get good results with yeast and salt are the basic ingredients. A flour made for bread baking and either dry or compressed yeast are the important ingredients.

If you haven't worked with yeast before, the term one yeast cake may be confusing when you want to work with dry yeast. One package dry yeast and one yeast cake are the same. You can even use two yeast cakes or packages rather than one to shorten the rising time. But you do need to know when a dough has risen enough to punch down or to shape into loaves or rolls.

Usually the dough is to rise until it's double in bulk. Check to see if it has risen enough by making a quick dent in the Creek.

Promises Exchanged

SHIOCTON — Miss Pamela E. Watkins, River Street, and John W. Rueckert repeated wedding vows at 2:30 p.m. Dec. 23 at Emanuel Lutheran Church, Breed. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. K. A. Martin.

Woman Wonders Who's the Patient at Psychiatric Sessions

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been seeing a psychiatrist who is supposed to be tops in this city. He has helped me a lot and the treatments are worth every cent I have spent. It will be two years next month since I began to see this doctor. He talks to me endlessly about his house which he dislikes because it is too small. He has confided that his children are maladjusted because he over-reacts to them. (He says psychiatrists' children suffer because their parents are forever searching for signs of abnormal behavior.) I know, too, that his wife has an unhealthy attachment to her father.

Yesterday all I did was listen. At the end of the session, I felt like saying, "That will be $25, please."

As I said, this psychiatrist has done me a world of good and I have no intention of discontinuing treatment until he tells me I should, but I'm beginning to think I am the therapist and he usually find it really wasn't worth the trouble. Right?

is the patient. What is your opinion? — Tables Turned

DEAR TABLES: This man's behavior is so unprofessional that I wonder if he really is a psychiatrist. But if the therapy has worked for you, who am I to pull the plug?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I did a rotten thing to my best friend and now I don't know how to patch it up. Please help me before I crack up.

Eloise and I have been like sisters since we were in the fifth grade. Now we are both 16. Eloise was going with Sid and I decided I would try to get him away just to see if I could. I made a play for him and it worked. In fact it worked so good that he won't leave me alone.

Sid calls me every night and I am so bored with his dumb ways that I want to hang up when I hear his voice. He has bought me two record albums and a box of candy. Last week he wrote a couple poems for me that are icky.

Eloise tries to be sweet but I can see the hurt look in her eyes and I hate myself. Please tell me what to do about this ugly mess. — Self-Made Trouble

Dear Trouble: Give Urry the word and right away. Just tell him he is not for you and that's that.

People who break all the rules to get what they want

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There seems to be a lot of fighting back and forth in your column over whether the parents should attempt to help their children with their homework if the teacher fails to get something across in school. This letter should settle it.

Last night was visiting night at my child's school. This is what the fourth grade teacher said:

"If your child comes home and asks you to help him because he does not understand something, please send us a note saying he needs extra attention. Don't try to teach him yourself. This is the teacher's job. A youngster sometimes becomes confused if too many people attempt to instruct him."

I was very happy to learn that my child's teacher is so conscientious. She recognizes her responsibility and wants to live up to it. How many other teachers are in her league? — A Lucky Mother

Dear Lucky: More than you think, I keep being impressed anew by the qualities of the teachers I meet. And I've seen a great many these past 10 years.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1965)

New Book of Fine Hands Published

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If you still remember about the plume of your tante you can spend a few enjoyable hours reading fine bridge hands in French. Roger Trezel, winner of three world championships and many French national championships, has just brought out a new collection of hands.

Today's hand, borrowed with thanks from Trezel, illustrates the play known as the Double Grand Coup. This is a way of saying that you must deliberately trump your partner's ace twice to make your contract.

West takes his three top diamonds and shifts to the nine of spades. You win in dummy with the ten of spades and lead the ten of hearts for a finesse. When this wins, you lead dummy's other heart to repeat the finesse.

West discards a club, and you see that you cannot capture the king of, trumps by normal means. If you lead dummy's high clubs, East will simply discard. You will soon be forced to trump and you will have to lead trumps out of your hand for lack of any other cards to lead. East will get his king, and you will be down one.

To avoid this you must deliberately waste two of your trumps. Lead a club to dummy's jack and ruff dummy's ace of clubs. Lead the jack of spades to dummy's queen and ruff dummy's king of clubs. (You can't ruff the ace of clubs twice, but ruffing the king is almost as spectacular.)

Now lead the king of spades to dummy's ace, and the stage is set. The lead is in dummy, and all hands are reduced to two cards. East has K-7 of trumps and you have A-Q.

No matter what you lead from dummy, East must ruff. You over-ruff and capture the king of trumps, making your contract and bowing to the mad cheers of the village maidens.

These Two Pictures of the same person illustrate how improper make-up can alter the appearance of the most attractive girl. A light touch is best when in doubt about cosmetics.

'Laying It on Thick' Teen Make-Up Goof

How much make-up should a teen "queen" wear? The question is widely debated, but the sad fact is that the inexperienced girl easily can overdo cosmetics and undo the hoped-for results.

The first mistake most junior beauties make is layering on foundation in an attempt to cover a faulty complexion. According to cosmetic authority Jack Kevan, "There is no need for such a hide-and-seek technique. Today, sensitive young skins can enjoy a 'clear future' with the aid of medicated cleanser, conditioner and foundation base, which help fight surface bacteria. Select a light foundation and sponge onto face, so it veils but does not mask complexion."

Eye Make-up Problem

Another stumbling block for most sub-debs is eye make-up. Whisking on powdered shadow and swirl-on mascara are not too challenging, but lining the eyes is.

In order to look more coed than chorine, use the side of the brush to draw a thread-like line behind upper lashes. The trick is to lift the brush as it nears the outer corner, so the line becomes increasingly thin and delicate. Although such make-up is usually reserved for party-time, most parents give their approval when daughters insist, "All the other girls wear it."

Watch Those Brows

Eyebrows also prove "disaster-ville" for many teens. Perhaps this is why bangs are popular. Some girls mangle hair into brows, so faulty arching

Woman Has Baby Girl She Didn't Expect

EASINGTON, England (AP) — Mrs. John Coates, 41, says she didn't know she was having a baby until a few hours before the baby arrived.

"You may not believe this," she said, "but I didn't even know I was pregnant. I had been feeling under the weather, but I put it down to an old illness. I didn't even call the doctor."

Her baby was born on Christmas Day, not long after Mrs. Coates attended the wedding of her 19-year-old daughter, Pauline.

"I felt really ill during the wedding service," said Mrs. Coates.

Called the Doctor

"I stayed at the church long enough for one wedding photograph and then I went home and took to my bed. I believe it was my mother who decided that the doctor should be called."

"I had taken two sleeping tablets, and I was half asleep. Then I heard him say, 'Why, she's going to have a baby.'"

"I said 'never,' but he was right. They got me to the hospital and there a baby girl was born. My husband and I are delighted."

Mrs. Coates' daughter and her new son-in-law postponed their honeymoon to look after mother and child.

Mrs. Coates and her husband, 44, a miner, also have a son, 21. They named the baby Angela.

Said Mrs. Coates' husband: "She says she was surprised. That's nothing to what I was."

OSHKOSH — A gross estate of more than $5 million was left by the late Joan Clark Catlin, Neenah, who died April 24, 1963, according to papers filed with County Judge Herbert J. Mueller.

Judge Mueller today ordered distribution of the estate to the heirs.

Convent Damaged by Ductwork Fire, Smoke

Fire that began in the area of a basement clothes chute about 9:30 a.m. today caused considerable smoke damage throughout St. Thomas More Convent, 1226 E. Pauline St.

Flames also damaged the chute, nearby duct work and the ceiling. Appleton firemen, who responded to the alarm with six units, said shortly before noon that the cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Nuns Evacuate

A nun at the convent called the fire department and said flames were coming out of a clothes chute opening on the first floor.

Firemen battled the smoky blaze for about 10 minutes but remained at the scene more than an hour clearing out smoke and cleaning up debris. A booster line was used to put out the flames.

Nuns evacuated the building as soon as the smoke was discovered.

Fire officials said smoke rolled throughout the new building through air ducts.

Kohler Co. Gives Recreation Land at Sheboygan to State

A New State Park has been made possible by a land grant from the Kohler Co. Plans involve development along Lake Michigan between Sheboygan and Milwaukee. Artist's sketch defines the park. (AP Wirephoto)

On Lake Michigan

MADISON—A large scenic area on the Lake Michigan shore within easy driving range of the Fox River Valley was assured for public recreational development today with the gift of a valuable tract of land to the State Conservation Commission by the Kohler Co.

Ultimately planned to cover about 650 acres, the shoreland tract, four miles south of Sheboygan, adjoins the existing Terry Andrae State Park of 260 acres. Details of the gift to the state in honor of John Michael Kohler, founder of the Kohler Co., in 1873, were announced here today by Kohler officials and officers of the State Conservation Department at a joint press conference. L. P. Voigt, state conservation director, said the area would be developed immediately and would be called John Michael Kohler State Park.

Lease Other Lands

The company's gift will be supplemented by the leasing of additional company lands to the state, the officials said. Herbert V. Kohler, board chairman of the firm, today presented the deed to the property to Guido Rahr of Manitowoc, a veteran member of the conservation commission.

The Kohler Co. head is the younger son of the firm's founder. Another son, the late Walter Kohler Sr., was governor of the state from 1928 to 1930. Walter Kohler Jr., a grandson, was governor from 1950 to 1956. Herbert Kohler said that the decision to preserve the large forest and dunes area on the lake shore for public use was made by the family nearly 30 years ago, when Walter J. Kohler Sr., headed the company.

Rahr described the gift tract as the largest land parcel on Lake Michigan between Chicago and Door county in private ownership and said the park will be one of the unique recreational areas within reach of the bulk of the Wisconsin population. The tract is about 50 miles north of Milwaukee, and about the same distance from most of the residents of the Fox River Valley, the second major population concentration within the state.

Covers 468 Acres

The company land made available for public use today encompasses about 468 acres, about half it deeded to the state outright. The remainder will be put into public use by long term lease. The conservation department said it would acquire other lands to expand the area considerably. A company official said the firm hopes that the leased acreage can also be given outright to the state in the future.

Rahr noted that the new park will have two miles of unbroken

Freedom Firemen Gather $2,500 Funds Raised for New Church

ONEIDA — Through the efforts of the Freedom Fire Department, $2,500 has been collected for the new Immaculate Conception Catholic Church to replace the one destroyed by fire this fall.

The funds will be used with an insurance settlement of $101,201.98 to build a new, larger church and new rectory, said Rev. Adrian Traeger, O. Praem., pastor.

The parish will borrow to build a $25,000-$30,000 rectory which will include quarters for the housekeeper. A new home for the parish's teaching nuns was completed this fall. Disposition of the present rectory will be made later.

Begin in April

Construction on the new facilities will begin in April, said Father Traeger. Parish members will serve as contractors as they did when the last church was constructed.

It saved the parish approximately $40,000, he explained, because much of the work was donated.

The new church will conform to changes in the Roman Catholic liturgy. The sacristy will be at the front of the church so the priest can walk to the sanctuary during the entrance hymn.

The new altar will be centered in the sanctuary and face the congregation instead of facing the back wall as it did previously. An altar of repose with a tabernacle will be located elsewhere in the sanctuary.

Father Traeger said would cost about $3,000 to $5,000 to add another 16 feet to the plan of the first church. The new rectory will be attached to the church by a fireproofed breezeway at the west end of the church.

The old convent will be moved from its present location. It was sold at the parish's annual picnic auction last summer.

When construction is completed all parish facilities will be located on the west side of the road and an expanded parking area will add a needed safety factor. Previously cars that could not park in the present lot had to park along the busy county trunk highway.

Single Segment

Largest single segment of the $2,000 donation came from a benefit dance sponsored by the firemen. The services of band, dance hall and dance hall inspector were donated.

In addition banks at Seymour, Black Creek, Appleton, Freedom, Little Chute, Kaukauna, Green Bay, Kimberly and Wrightstown served as collection points for public donations.

Father Traeger thanked individuals and firms in the Fox Valley area "for their spirit of cooperation and help due to the total loss of our church."

"We are especially indebted to the Freedom Volunteer Fire Department and Fire Chief Ed Vandenberg, not only for their long hours of work in the middle of the night controlling the fire, but also for their efforts in making all the returns possible," he said.

Father Traeger said he was expanding the church plans to make it available to more people, particularly those who donated. Additional pledges of assistance will be fulfilled when construction starts.

Youth Sentenced to 30 Days in Jail on Misconduct Charge

Dennis G. Lemmens, 18, Circle Acres Trailer Court, Appleton, this morning was sentenced to 30 days in jail after he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct in connection with damage at Village Lanes, a bowling alley and bar just north of Little Chute, Wednesday night.

The county policeman called to the scene said Lemmens broke two panes of glass in a front door and became abusive on the way to jail.

Dairymen Want Economic-Type Price Formula

To Ask Government To Establish New Milk Market Plan

CHICAGO (AP) — Spokesmen for dairy farmers in six Midwestern states said today they will ask the Department of Agriculture to consider an economic-type formula in establishing a market price which handlers must pay producers for Class 1 milk.

The Associated Dairymen Inc., acting on behalf of milk producers, said the department would be requested at a hearing in Chicago Feb. 1 to consider factors other than supply-demand alone.

Class 1 milk is used for bottling.

A. L. McWilliams, general manager of the Pure Milk Association, Chicago, acting as spokesman for his organization and other members of Associated Dairymen, said these proposals would be offered to improve prices to producers in 12 midwestern states:

- Economics-Type
1. An economic-type formula which considers the wholesale index, consumer purchasing power, prices paid by farmers, prices received by farmers, and the Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk pricing formula as the basis for determining the market order Class 1 price to producers.
 2. That the Chicago market order be amended so that only plants which send at least half of their milk to fluid markets during the fall months shall be entitled to full participation in the Chicago pool.
- The 12 federal marketing areas involved in the proposals are in parts of Illinois, Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Wisconsin.

Six Persons Injured When Train Hits Car

Family Returning to Waupaca Involved In Crash in Neenah

NEENAH — Six persons returning to Waupaca from a belated Christmas dinner were taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital Wednesday night suffering from multiple injuries after the car in which they were riding was struck broadside by a switch engine at the Soo Line crossing on Main Street.

Theda Clark Memorial Hospital authorities said four were retained at the hospital and two were treated and released after the 9:43 p.m. accident.

Jean Ann Stolenberg, 4, Madison, was reported in satisfactory condition with facial lacerations and contusions of the right ear, hospital authorities said. Karen Jean Hansen, 18, Waupaca, received severe lacerations to her right wrist. She is reported in satisfactory condition this morning. Mrs. John Hansen, Waupaca, is reported in satisfactory condition with fractured right ribs, contusions and minor lacerations. Mrs. David Hansen, Madison, is in fair condition, authorities said, with facial lacerations and possible fractures.

Did Not See Train

Driver of the car, David Hansen, Madison, was treated and released as was his 4 1/2-month-old daughter, Beth Ann. Police said Hansen stopped for the first of three sets of tracks, did not see the switch engine and proceeded onto the second set of tracks where the collision occurred.

"No one in the car saw the train, no one even hollered," Hansen told police. "I didn't know there were three sets of tracks," he said. He told police he stopped behind two cars and after they proceeded he moved ahead, stopped again, then moved onto the tracks.

Police said the switch engine caught the left side of the car with a front coupling, pushing the vehicle to the edge of the roadway. The coupling, imbedded in the car, undoubtedly kept the car from turning over and inflicting more serious injury to the occupants, police said. The car received extensive damage.

Police said the group had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Setra, 720 Congress Place.

The report said the train was moving south and the Hansen car was approaching from the east.

Clifford Allen, 44, 1175 Jacobson Road, was the engineer, police said.

ishing class is scheduled from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays.

Four continuing holiday workshop classes are set from 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Marion Breaks Contracts With Building Firms

Failure to Complete Work on New School Cited by Board

MARION — Joint School District No. 3 is breaking contracts with Green Bay and Little Chute firms for failure to complete contracted work on the new grade school.

Architect Quentin Hoffman, Green Bay, advised the district school board at a special meeting Tuesday night to break contracts with Treet Heating Co., Green Bay, and Hietpas Inc., Little Chute, a plumbing firm.

Workers of the two companies walked off their jobs about three weeks ago, honoring a picket representing Trade Laborers Local No. 931 and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local No. 577.

Non-Union Labor

The picket was protesting the hiring of non-union labor by Kucksdorf Construction Co., contractors for the building. A spokesman for the firm said it never was contacted regarding union labor and that the men on the job preferred to be non-union.

The union picket was honored by the electricians and plumbers, but last week was picketed in turn by two Marion youngsters.

They protested the slowup in completion of the grade school. Temporary classrooms are being used at present by the Marion school system.

Airlines, Others Rise Sharply

Market Advances In Fairly Active Afternoon Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Airlines and selected issues were up sharply as the stock market advanced early this afternoon in fairly active trading.

Airlines continued their snap-back of Wednesday from recent heavy profit taking.

Aerospace defense issues improved fractionally despite the U.S. peace offensive.

Big Three motors were higher, along with drugs, color televisions, other electronics, rails, chemicals, utilities and nonferrous metals.

The rise of the consumer price index to another record in November was regarded as bullish background for the stock market.

Wall Streeters expected that in the final two sessions of 1965 demand for blue chips would be fairly strong because of the desire of investment funds to beef up their portfolios.

AP Average

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 356.8 with industrials up 1.8, rails up .3 and utilities up .4.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.17 to 964.47 at noon.

As the airlines rebounded, Northwest, KLM and National were up about 3 apiece.

Among defense stocks, Boeing, United Aircraft and General Dynamics nudged ahead while Douglas Aircraft was a bit lower.

Zenith spurted about 3 1/2 and Radio Corp. was a fractional gainer.

Prices rose in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Green Bay Cheese

Quality Keynote to Conserve Land, Water

Public Projects to be Coordinated With Private Recreation Enterprises

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Quality will be the keynote in the operation of the new federal aid program for land and water conservation work in the state, says the state conservation department supervisor of the project.

Moreover, there will be an effort to coordinate the public projects with the interests and the needs of private recreational enterprises, adds Alex Enly, head of the program coordination division which will direct the state and local projects under the new federal land and water conservation act. The officials are using the word "Lawcon" as an abbreviation for the new federal aid program which will give the total Wisconsin conservation effort an infusion of about $2,500,000 a year through 50 per cent grants to projects sponsored by the state and the localities. The state and local shares of the money will be equal.

Plan Worked Out

Enly said his advisory committee of leading Wisconsin private citizens interested in conservation has worked out a plan showing present needs and projected needs for recreational developments to 1970 and 1980, in seven planning areas of the state.

Priority in the approval of funds will be for land when it is needed, next for basic facilities, and then more elaborate improvements. He has recommended that each county board organize a special committee or a county officer to process projects within the county and to coordinate their planning. Each local government sponsor will be permitted up to 18 months for the completion of a county-wide recreational plan.

Enly wrote:

"Recreation slums, whether they be inferior public areas, private resorts or polluted lakes with cabins shoulder to shoulder at the water's edge, must be prevented or improved upon if possible.

"We can never provide all the needed outdoor recreation on public lands. Planning and zoning are required to preserve nature's wonders as scenic background for the private resorts and to protect our recreational image."

Conflict Flares Again With Menasha, Town

BY JOHN TORINUS JR.

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — The quarrelsome conflict between the Town of Menasha and the city took another turn Wednesday when town officials brought in the town constable and sheriff's deputies in an attempt to stop work of a surveyor retained by the city.

The surveying crew has been working for about a week to compile total acreage figures for the area involved in the recent annexation of approximately 183 acres from the town. The data is to be used as an aid in the extensive litigation now in process over the annexation.

Inside City

Town Chairman Roland Kampe and Town Clerk Robert Jacobs reportedly approached the surveyors Tuesday and asked them what they were doing. About 1 p.m. Wednesday the town constable again approached the surveyors and told them they could not survey on town roads without permission, according to informed sources.

into town roads, the surveyors said. The survey nails are one and a half inches long and approximately one-eighth to one-quarter inches thick.

Hold Conferences

The survey work on town roads continued until Kampe called in the sheriff's deputies. When the deputies arrived on the scene the head surveyor was taken to the town hall for a conference with Jacobs, Kampe, the town constable and a member of the town board, the sheriff's office said.

The surveyors agreed to do no further work on town roads, but were continuing their last few days of field work this morning off the roads.

The acreage compilations, reportedly, will be at the center of the major court case on the annexation.

A wonder drug for heartburn?

A stomach specialist has tested a tablet so effective it can well be called a wonder drug. No bigger than a penny, this pill will neutralize the hot acid that causes heartburn better than leading prescription-type antacids. In tests at a famous medical center it beat every leading antacid tested. What is this wonder drug for heartburn? TUMS. The penny tablet you think is a candy mint really is the best medicine you can buy for heartburn. TUMS. The medicine that's hard to believe, till you take it.

State Highway Payments Top $500,000 in 4-County Area

Every Municipality in State Receives Part of Tax Allotment

Payments totaling more than half a million dollars are being received in the Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Calumet four-county area from the State Highway Commission.

The payments, which go to every city, village and town in Wisconsin, are part of the $7,805,594 highway tax allotment on motor vehicles distributed by the state.

The $548,985 for the four-county area is the final portion of about $44.5 million in state highway funds returned to local municipal units of government during the year, in addition to $17.8 million in aids distributed directly to the 72 counties.

Distributed in March

Statewide basic aids of about $6.4 million were distributed in March, followed by supplementary payments of $14.1 million distributed in April and $16.2 million in August.

The present allocation is the so-called "privilege highway tax" that since 1931 has replaced the general property taxes previously assessed locally on autos and trucks. The distribution is based on registrations and title fees for vehicles customarily kept in the respective municipalities.

Winnebago County municipalities receive the largest total in the current distribution in the four-county area, $214,365. Allocations for cities include $23,267 for Menasha; $41,372 for Neenah; $77,384 for Oshkosh; and $3,960 for Omro, with another $2,417 for the village of Winnebago. The 16 towns of Winnebago County receive a $65,962 total.

Outagamie Total

The Outagamie County total of $204,465 breaks down into $86,191 for Appleton; $14,307 for Kaukauna; $2,082 for New London; $6,716 for Seymour; $834 for Bear Creek; $1,644 for Black Creek; $2,264 for Combined Locks; $2,564 for Hortonville; $6,299 for Kimberly; $7,374 for Little Chute; $1,780 for Shiocton, and $72,404 for the 20 towns.

Appleton also receives an additional $1,922 for vehicles based in the Appleton portion of Calumet County and New London gets an added $7,187 for vehicles based in the Waupaca County portion of New London. The Appleton total is $88,113 and the New London total $2,693.

The Waupaca County total is $74,054. In addition to the New London payment, it includes $9,428 for Clintonville; $2,556 for Manawa; $2,343 for Marion; $9,754 for Waupaca; $4,292 for Weyauwega; $250 for Big Falls; $658 for Embarras; $1,956 for Fremont; $1,885 for Iola; $450 for Ogdensburg; $532 for Scandinavia, and $32,756 for the 22 towns.

The Calumet total is $56,101, including $16,163 for Brillion; $5,682 for Chilton; $674 for Kiel; $5,687 for New Holstein; $1,474 for Hilbert; $900 for Stockbridge, and $23,595 for the nine towns.

Shawano County's total is $68,304, including $13,074 for Shawano; $1,272 for Birmahwood; $2,370 for Bonduel; $883 for Cecil; $594 for Eland; $785 for Gresham; $2,143 for Tigerton, and $1,861 for Wittenberg. The total for the 25 towns is $42,974.

The Brown County total is $301,060 with $1,684 going to Wrightstown and $2,490 to Den-

Water Levels Of State Rivers Above Average

Official Says This Does Not Indicate Heavy Spring Floods

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin streams, rivers and reservoirs have above average water levels but this does not indicate more flooding than usual in the spring, Marvin Beatty, University of Wisconsin soil conservationist, reported Tuesday.

"High water levels favor flooding but shallow frost depth and better than average plant regrowth on slopes may cancel out flood potential," he observed.

Soils, he added, are no longer at saturation levels since some of the fall rain has already seeped down to groundwater table. The soil will be able to take up more water in the spring after the frost disappears.

Beatty recalled the deep frosts last spring which prevented wa-

Aliens Reminded to Report Addresses to Government in January

R. A. Klein, officer in charge of the Milwaukee office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, has again reminded all aliens to report their addresses during January.

Cards with which to make the reports are available at post offices and offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service throughout the country. The reports must be submitted to one of those offices.

Parents or guardians submit reports for alien children under 14 years of age.

Klein urges all aliens to report before the end of January, as willful failure to do so may lead to serious penalties.

"The snowcover we have now — if it remains — will retard further frost penetration, and means the frost will go out earlier next spring," he added.

Here Are Directions for Making Molded Paper Dolls

BY CAPPY DICK

It's fun to mold doll heads out of pulp made of paper napkins and flour-and-water paste. After molding the nose, eyes, chin and forehead, you can tint the lips, cheeks, brows and lashes so the little face will look almost real.

molding when you can roll the pulp into a ball like clay.

Punch Holes

Stick a pipe cleaner into the ball. With a toothpick, punch holes into the pulp for eyes, pinch up a piece for the nose, press in a mouth and mold the lips and chin. Add more pulp around the pipe cleaner to make the neck of the doll. When the head has been molded to your satisfaction, set it aside for a few days to dry.

After the head has hardened, make the hair, by pasting on brown, yellow or black crepe paper soaked in paste so it can be molded into the style of hairdo you desire. With water colors, tint the face of the doll. Mold wads of pink crepe paper to the end of the arms for hands.

Tie a piece of crepe paper around the pipe cleaner body for a skirt. The waist is another piece of crepe paper with a hole in the center (Figure 1) to slip the doll's head through. Figure 2 shows how to make the lace bonnet from a section of paper doll.

Dress the doll.

Mold the head on the end of a pipe cleaner. Another pipe cleaner, twisted around the first, will form the arms. Dress the doll in a crepe paper waist and skirt and a lacy hat made from part of a paper doll.

To make the pulp from which the head is molded, tear several pink and white paper napkins into tiny pieces. You will need a handful. Mix two tablespoons of white flour with enough water to make a thin paste. Mix the bits of paper into the paste, kneading it with your fingers until the pulp is smooth and stiff. The mixture is ready for

FVL Varsity '5' Rallies to Top Alumni, 53-51

Dahlke Paces Win; Foxes Erase 35-20 Third-Period Deficit

BY TIM PETERMANN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

For a while, it looked as if the Fox Valley Lutheran High School alumni's chant of "we're gonna win this year" would finally be a reality after five consecutive defeats, but the FVL varsity stormed from a 15-point deficit midway through the third period with 33 points in the final 11:06 of play to edge the alumni, 53-51, in a thriller here Wednesday night.

The outcome of the game was actually decided from the free throw line as the alumni could only drop in seven of 28 charity tosses, including only two of 11 in the final period, while the varsity hit on 15 of 28 attempts. This edge in free throws offset the alumni's 22-19 edge in field goals.

The contest started out at a snail's pace with the varsity holding an 8-6 edge at the end of the first quarter, despite the fact that they hit only 18 per cent of its shots in the quarter.

Lead By Two
With both teams substituting freely, the alumni were able to annex a 2-point lead at halftime, 17-15. Lee Kiepe set the alumni pace with six markers while Tom Ehlke kept the Foxes in the game, also with six of his team's seven points.

In the third period, the alumni opened a 35-20 lead, with 3:23 left in the quarter as Kiepe poured in nine points and Wayne Koenig chipped in with eight. It was at this point that the varsity started its rally. With six free throws and three field goals to only two field goals for the alumni, the Foxes were able to pull within seven at the quarter, 39-32.

Beginning the fourth quarter, the alumni took a 43-34 advantage with 6:15 remaining. Then with Dennis Neumann and Mark Dahlke leading the way, FVL came back with nine straight points to tie the game at 43-43, with 4:01 on the scoreboard clock.

Ron Vandertie then made a layup for the alumni; but the Foxes countered on a hook by Dave Tiedt, a 15-foot jumper by Dahlke and a brace of free throws by Ehlke for a 49-45 lead with 2:26 left.

Kiepe then hit on a pair of charity tosses and Ron Sager added a tip-in to tie the score at 49-49, with 1:32 remaining. Dahlke checked on a 20-foot jump shot, but Sager tallied on a short jumper to knot the

Browns' Schaftrath Limping

Stomach Pains Bother Ryan

CLEVELAND (AP) — Quarterback Frank Ryan turned green. The Cleveland Browns' coaching staff turned worried.

Ryan developed stomach pains Wednesday while the Browns were in a morning film session in preparation for Sunday's National Football League championship against the Green Bay Packers.

"He feels pretty sick," said team physician Dr. Vic Ippolito, "but I think he'll be much better Thursday. It's an intestinal upset."

Coach Blanton Collier had back-up quarterback Jim Nowski run the team in the Browns heavy workout, and he hit his targets well as the emphasis was on offense. Frank did a lot of throwing Tuesday, said Collier. "He also worked last week on most of the things we did in practice Wednesday so the fact that he was absent shouldn't bother him."

Starr on Road to Recovery, Confident of Playing Sunday

Fouls Hurt Marquette

Evansville Decisions Warriors on Late Goal For Tournament Title

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Brunkhorst eight seconds later and the Aces waited for the winning final shot.

Wolf led all scorers with 29 points. Evansville's Little All-America Larry Humes, third highest scorer in the nation among small college players, had 26 and was voted the tournament's most valuable player. Watkins contributed 20.

Kent State nudged Yale, Marquette's opening night victim, in the consolation game 77-75. Evansville (7-2) roared to an early 10-2 lead against Marquette (6-4) and kept command until Flynn led a rally that knotted the game at 23-23. It was tied again at 25-25 before a flurry of free throws shot the Aces on top 40-29.

Flynn and Simmons had both fouled out by that point, but Wolfe took charge to help cut the deficit to 44-41. Marquette stayed within five points during the early part of the second half and finally drew abreast at 69-69, then sagged again to trail 85-80 in the closing minutes.

Bob Wolf's layup with 1:06 left created the last tie, Watkins won a jump ball with Brian

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr expects to play Sunday and that is bad news for the Cleveland Browns. It isn't official yet, but Tildenton, U.S.A. is bursting with optimism about its hometown Packers with its No. 1 quarterback back at the helm.

Starr tuned up Wednesday for the first time since Sunday's injury and found he could throw the ball. His damaged back is not entirely healthy, but it is beginning to come around.

"I plan on playing," said Starr in the clubhouse after the Packers resumed work for the National Football League championship game following a two-day vacation.

"I am not planning on sitting down," he said. He sounded as though he meant it.

More Cohesive Unit — Although Zeke Bratkowski, his understudy, did a fine job Sunday after Starr was hurt on the first play of the playoff game with Baltimore, the Packers are a more cohesive unit with No. 15 at the controls.

"Bart didn't throw well, but he did throw," commented Coach Vince Lombardi. "He should get a little better every day because he is a fast healer. I still don't know what to say about Sunday."

The Packers feel Starr's pinpoint passing will be more effective against the defending champion's deep defense than Zeke's bombs.

Cleveland definitely is vulnerable to the pass. The Browns have given up 43 touchdowns, 12 on running plays and 31 on passes. In contrast, Green Bay has been scored on 22 times, 11 by runs and 11 by passes.

Threat of Rain or Snow — Although the most recent weather forecast calls for mild temperatures and possible showers or flurries during the week, there is an ominous threat of rain or snow for Sunday.

The field, recovered with hay immediately after the Baltimore game, is in prime condition. Of course, it'll have to take what comes when the cover is taken off Sunday morning.

Paul Hornung ran with his old spirit in Wednesday's workout although he confined himself with straightaway dashes with no cuts. He still is nursing a bruised right leg.

Jim Taylor came up with a 20-yard gain on a play that was called for a first down.

Collins, the NFL's leading punter, still has some tenderness in the rib area, but indications are that he'll be ready for punting and pass-catching duties.

Vikes Break Scoring Record Meet Knights for Crown

Lawrence Tips Northland, 106-76, As Schultz, Bock, Steinmetz Star; St. Norbert Raps Milton, 89-65

BY JIM HARP

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Host Lawrence University and defending champion St. Norbert College, of DePere, will meet at 9 p.m. tonight at Alexander Gymnasium for the championship of the Lawrence Holiday Basketball Tournament.

Lawrence earned its way into the finals with a record-breaking 106-76 victory over Northland College while the Green Knights of St. Norbert scored an easy 89-65 triumph over outclassed Milton College in Wednesday night action.

The 7 p.m. consolation game tonight will match Northland and Milton.

This marks the second straight year that the Vikes and St. Norbert will clash in the finals. Last year St. Norbert posted a 84-62 win to take the title.

Record Total

The Clyde Rusk-coached Vikes broke away from a 2-point halftime lead to bury Northland under a barrage of baskets in the last half and came through with a record point total for a Lawrence team. The 106 markers tops the 103 scored by the 1953 team against Mission House.

Showing good scoring balance, the Vikes had three players with more than 20 markers. Junior Dick Schultz led the way with 28 points, sophomore Brian Bock added 25 and senior and team captain Tom Steinmetz chipped in with 22. It was Schultz who led the second-half resurgence with 11 of his 12 buckets in the last 20 minutes of action.

Bock sizzled throughout the game, picking up seven field goals in the first half and five more in the second. Steinmetz had 14 of his 22 markers in the first half to keep the Vikes in the lead.

Scoring Honors

Scoring honors for the game were taken by hot shooting Bob Hammen, Northland senior, who bagged 12 buckets and five of six free throws for 29 points. The 29 markers is the highest scored by any individual player in the 2-year history of the Lawrence classic.

With four minutes gone in the second half, the score was tied at 55-55 when the Vikes broke loose for 12 straight points and a 67-55 lead which they never relinquished.

St. Norbert had a little trouble finding the range against the taller Milton squad, but once the Green Knights caught fire there was no stopping Coach Romie Kosnar's charges.

4-Point Lead

Midway in the first half, St. Norbert had a slim 4-point lead.

Two NFL Teams Will Negotiate With George Rice

CHICAGO (AP) — Two National Football League clubs have accepted the Chicago Bears' invitation to negotiate with the Bears' now-unwanted No. 1 draft choice, tackle George Rice of Louisiana State.

"I can't disclose which clubs expressed interest in Rice because that would be putting them on the spot," Bear President George Halas Jr., said Wednesday.

The Bears dropped Rice Tuesday as a prospect because Owner-Coach George Halas Sr. refused to contend in a money derby with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League for the services of the 260-pound LSU star.

Rice, who can't be signed until after playing in Saturday's Cotton Bowl game, was Houston's No. 3 draft choice.

St. Mary Cage Team Records 62-56 Win Over Marquette High

Zephyrs Break 27-27 Tie, Pull Away To Fifth Triumph

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — St. Mary pocketed a 62-56 triumph over defending WCIAA champion Milwaukee Marquette by combining consistent shooting and a harassing defense here Wednesday night.

Their fifth triumph in eight starts was probably the best defensively for the Menashans, who forced the visitors to do most of their scoring from the outside. They used a press most of the game.

The margin might have been wider except for the fine play of the Hilltoppers' Bill Michuda, who hit well from outside and was the club's floor general. He accounted for all of his team's eight points in the third period and finished with 23 for the night to claim game honors.

St. Mary broke a 27-all tie with a couple of minutes left to play in the second period and was on top the rest of the way.

36-31 At Halftime
The hosts owned a 36-31 halftime lead, saw it slimmer to 38-37 early in the third period but managed to hold a 5 point advantage (44-39) at the conclusion of the segment as each team canned eight points.

Dave Koerner scored off the fast break at the start of the final frame and added a free throw. With 6:25 left to play, the hosts had a 10-point lead but saw it slashed in half with four minutes remaining.

A basket and two free throws by Mike Heroux and John Kosiorek's gifter again upped the difference to 10 (58-48) with 3:21 left.

The hosts had a 60-54 lead at the 1:08 mark and iced the verdict when Koerner hit off the fast break with just 18 seconds left on the clock.

Hit 35 Per Cent

St. Mary broke 35 per cent of its field goal attempts, helped by nine of 15 in the second period and a sharp six of 10 in the fourth. The victors made 18 of 30 free throws.

Marquette also had 22 field goals but took 72 attempts for 30 per cent accuracy. It went 12 of 19 from the free stripe.

Heroux garnered St. Mary scoring honors with 21 points on six baskets and nine free throws in 13 attempts. Mike Gage scored 15 points. He picked up three fouls in the first half but finished the game without getting any more.

Koerner Adds 11

Koerner played his best game of the year and came up with 11 points. Kosiorek, who began to hit from the side, also had his up game, chipping in with four baskets and a free throw. Mike Kettenhofen only made one basket but was outstanding defensively and handled the ball well.

Tom Sonnenberg was runner-up to Michuda for Marquette honors with 16 points. He fouled out with 3:34 left to play. The two didn't get much scoring help from their teammates.

Marquette was housed in Menasha Wednesday night and was slated to scrimmage the Zephyrs and Kaukauna today.

St. Mary plays at Weyauwega next Tuesday night.

Italian Quit After Criticism On Hanoi Offer

By GERALD MILLER

ROME (AP) — Italy teetered today on the brink of a new political crisis after Premier Aldo Moro accepted Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani's resignation.

Moro had asked Fanfani to withdraw the resignation. Fanfani submitted it after he came under fire in connection with the report from his friend, Prof. Giorgio La Pira, of a peace feeler from Hanoi.

After Fanfani insisted he was determined to quit on Jan. 6, the premier accepted his resignation Wednesday night.

Fanfani pioneered center-left collaboration between the Catholic Christian Democrats and the Socialists in a government coalition which Moro now heads. Fanfani's followers have long considered Moro too cautious.

Fanfani had said he was resigning to dissociate himself from criticisms La Pira made of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Moro at a party at Fanfani's home. Earlier he had been under fire for passing along to the U.S. government La Pira's report of a peace overture from North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh. Hanoi repudiated the report.

La Pira admitted making the belittling comments but said he was jesting and was quoted out of context. His remarks were reported by the right-wing weekly, Borghese. Fanfani's wife had arranged the meeting at her home between La Pira and a Borghese correspondent, reportedly because she hoped the critical magazine would be impressed by La Pira's sincerity. Fanfani was still in New York at the time, serving as president of the U.N. General Assembly.

Lovell to Visit Milwaukee

Astronaut Accepts Invitation 'Home'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Astronaut James Lovell Jr., copilot for the epic Gemini 7 space flight, will visit his boyhood home of Milwaukee Feb. 23.

Lovell will be honored by state and educational officials the following day in Madison.

Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier announced Wednesday night that Lovell had accepted his invitation for a homecoming celebration of the historic space feat.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials also confirmed Lovell would visit Madison Feb. 24, the start of engineering week at the University of Wisconsin.

Both dates are tentative at present.

School in Milwaukee
Lovell is a graduate of Solomon Juneau High School in Milwaukee and attended the University of Wisconsin.

His wife, the former Marilyn Gerlach of Milwaukee will accompany the astronaut for the two days of ceremonies.

Maier said he was informed Lovell "considers Milwaukee his home town and he is delighted to accept" the invitation.

Lovell is a native of Cleveland, but moved here with his widowed mother when he was 10.

The Lovells are expecting the birth of their fourth child, and Maier said of the Feb. 23 date: "There is no particular magic in the date. It is, I am told, simply far enough away to safely assure that Mrs. Lovell will be able to share our hospitality."

Mother-in-Law Pleased
"Lovell's mother-in-law, Mrs. Carl Gerlach of Milwaukee, was pleased when informed of the visit Wednesday night, but laughed, "I thought this telephone call was from them to tell me about the birth of the baby. It should be here by now."

Plans for Milwaukee's celebration were not determined immediately. Under NASA policy, both NASA and the astronaut make final decisions on the particular type of greeting they want.

Gov. Warren Knowles had invited Lovell to visit Wisconsin either Jan. 22 or Feb. 24, although UW officials have said neither date will allow enough time to go through formal procedures of awarding an honorary degree to Lovell, a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy.

Saltonstall Won't Run
Massachusetts Negro To Seek Senate Seat

BOSTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, who now holds one of the highest elective offices of any Negro in the nation, announced today his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

Brooke will go before the state Republican convention in June and enter the state primary in September seeking the nomination for the seat now held by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall.

Brooke made his announcement at a news conference called just 24 hours after Saltonstall said he will retire at the end of his present term from the seat he has held since 1944.

Saltonstall, senior Republican on the Senate Appropriations and Armed Services Committee, announced Wednesday he would not seek re-election.

He said, "I feel that it would be difficult for me to serve another six-year term with the zeal, ability and conscientiousness that I would want to serve."

Saltonstall, 73, said he had no health problem now but did not know what "it might be in five or six years."

No Health Problem
Saltonstall's retirement will leave an opening for chairman of the Senate Republican Conference and move Sen. Milton R. Young of North Dakota up as ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee. It also will make Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine the ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee.

Another Republican who might enter the race to succeed

Saltonstall is Gov. John A. Volpe. But many observers at the State House predict that Volpe will run for re-election rather than get involved in a convention or primary fight with Brooke for the nomination.

Would Run
Brooke earlier this year told fellow Republicans Volpe and Lt. Gov. Elliott L. Richardson that if Saltonstall retired he would be a candidate to succeed him.

In the last two general elections, Brooke has been the top Republican vote-getter in the state.

In 1962, he was the only Republican to win statewide office when elected to his first two-year term as attorney general.

Two years later, while President Johnson and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy were carrying Massachusetts by margins of greater than one million votes each, Brooke won re-election by defeating his Democratic opponent by 800,000 votes.

There have been no Negroes in the Senate since 1881, in Reconstruction days. Only two served, Mississippi Republicans Hiram R. Revels and B. K. Bruce.

For a generation, Saltonstall has regularly defeated Democratic party challengers.

Considered a certain candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Senate is Mayor John F. Collins of Boston, generally rated the front runner.

Necessary Precaution, Bad Sign

Reactivation of Ordnance Works At Baraboo Brings Mixed Reaction

BARABOO (AP) — Defense Department orders to reactivate the Badger Ordnance Works near Baraboo after an Illinois strike threatened ammunition supplies for Viet Nam brought mixed reaction today on both military and economic fronts.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., called the resumption of production necessary to prevent an ammunition shortage resulting from the 30-day strike at another plant at East Alton, Ill.

But Rep. Vernon W. Thomson, R-Wis., a former governor in whose congressional district the plant is located, said, "The opening of the plant is an ominous sign. It would seem to indicate the trend that the war is taking—this amid all our peace feelers."

'Help Wage Scale'
At nearby Portage, the president of the city council, Donald Murphy, called the reactivation "a tremendous thing" and said, "It will certainly help our wage scale."

However, Charles Monroe Jr. of Portage, president of the Columbia County Labor Council, said, "There will be people quitting good jobs to go to work there, and if it is only a temporary thing, it can cause a lot of problems."

The $200 million plant, which covers 5,000 acres of prairie land in Sauk County south of Baraboo, has been inactive since February, 1958. It produced both small arms and rocket powder during World War II and the Korean conflict.

The Defense Department made the announcement of immediate reactivation of the plant Wednesday. It was described as the only plant other than the Olin Mathieson Co. facilities at East Alton that is equipped to produce ball powder for rifle, machine gun and 20 millimeter shells for Viet Nam.

Considered Before Strike
The three unions have been on strike nearly a month at East Alton. But the Pentagon said reopening of the Badger plant had been under study before the strike.

Estimates of the period necessary to resume production at Badger ranged from three to six months. A maintenance and guard force of about 200 persons has remained at the plant during the eight-year shutdown, with some of the land leased for grazing.

Sen. Proxmire said a work force of 950 would be employed for the reactivation.

Francis J. Walsh, director of the State Employment Service, warned Wednesday night there might be difficulty in recruiting workers.

Available Workers
"In terms of total numbers of workers available, you couldn't count on several hundred or thousand from the immediate area," he said.

"There really isn't a high level of unemployment anywhere," Walsh added, but he suggested some workers might be available as the result of the American Motors Corp. lay-with the Parkway adding a choice of tea or milk and toast or doughnut.

Humphrey Watches Inauguration

Marcos Sworn in as Philippine Leader

MANILA (AP) — Onetime guerrilla fighter Ferdinand E. Marcos took the oath as the sixth president of the Philippines today and pledged his nation to austerity at home and greater cooperation with free nations of Asia.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey represented the United States at the inauguration. A host of other dignitaries also attended the ceremonies, which drew 50,000 Filipinos to Luneta Park beside Manila Bay and millions more to radio and television sets.

Marcos, 48, startled the festive audience with a stern speech outlining the nation's economic and political ills.

He extolled the Philippines as a democratic example to unstable nations in Asia and pledged it would stand beside "every fighter for freedom." But he warned that the nation's coffers were empty and "hard decisions" — such as sending troops to Viet Nam—must be made for the national interest of the Philippines.

Before the election last month, Marcos said he opposed sending combat troops to Viet Nam although he favored enlarging the Philippine medical unit there. After the election, he indicated he had changed his mind and was in favor of sending a combat battalion.

He did not mention Viet Nam by name in his inaugural speech but noted that freedom in Asia was being seriously endangered. He said that free Asian nations need to consult more closely and coordinate their policies to insure freedom.

"Any threat to humanity in off of 2,300 employees at Kenosha.

The Badger plant was built in 1942 and employed 8,000 persons at the peak of its World War II production. It was shut down from 1946 to 1951, then reopened during the Korean conflict when it had a work force of up to 4,500.

The Army's representative at the plant, John Troyer, said a timetable for reactivation was not available yet because the Pentagon had not specified exactly what ammunition it would want.

Los Angeles Venture In Arts Big Success

Year-Old Community Center Offers
401 Programs to Million Customers

By BOB THOMAS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Music Center celebrates its first birthday this month, marking a spectacular success for Los Angeles' bigtime venture into the arts.

During its short history, the white and gold pavilion atop Bunker Hill attracted 1,232,000 customers to 401 performances of everything from "Hello Dolly!" to Andres Segovia. Now building are two companion theaters: a 1,833-seat legitimate theater and a 730-seat forum for the intimate productions, lectures, chamber music, etc.

But theaters are useless without attractions to fill their stages. That is the present concern of Mrs. Norman Chandler, who led the remarkable drive for $13 million in public subscription to build the Music Center. The rest of the $25 million came from a bond issue by Los Angeles County, which contributed seven acres in Civic Center.

Resident Company
Although the two new theaters will not open until 1967, Mrs. Chandler already is working on a campaign to support a resident repertory company.

"Before, we were asking people to invest in bricks and mortar—something they could see," Mrs. Chandler said. "Now we are asking for a second investment in the first one. Our prospects must understand the philosophy and objectives of the drive. If they know what we are trying to do, then they might contribute."

All Takes Time
Mrs. Chandler has consulted operators of other repertory companies, principally the Tyrone Guthrie Theater in Minneapolis, Minn. They have told her the first step is to gather a competent staff; two years of organizing was recommended before the first play is produced.

"I purposely haven't set a goal for the campaign," said Mrs. Chandler, "but we will need at least a million dollars a year for five years to get the repertory company under way."

Norman Chandler is board chairman of the Los Angeles Times. Mrs. Chandler has a knack for raising money. Such is her fame as a fund-raiser—she prefers "saleswoman"—that she was recently invited to address the National Association of Manufacturers on the subject.

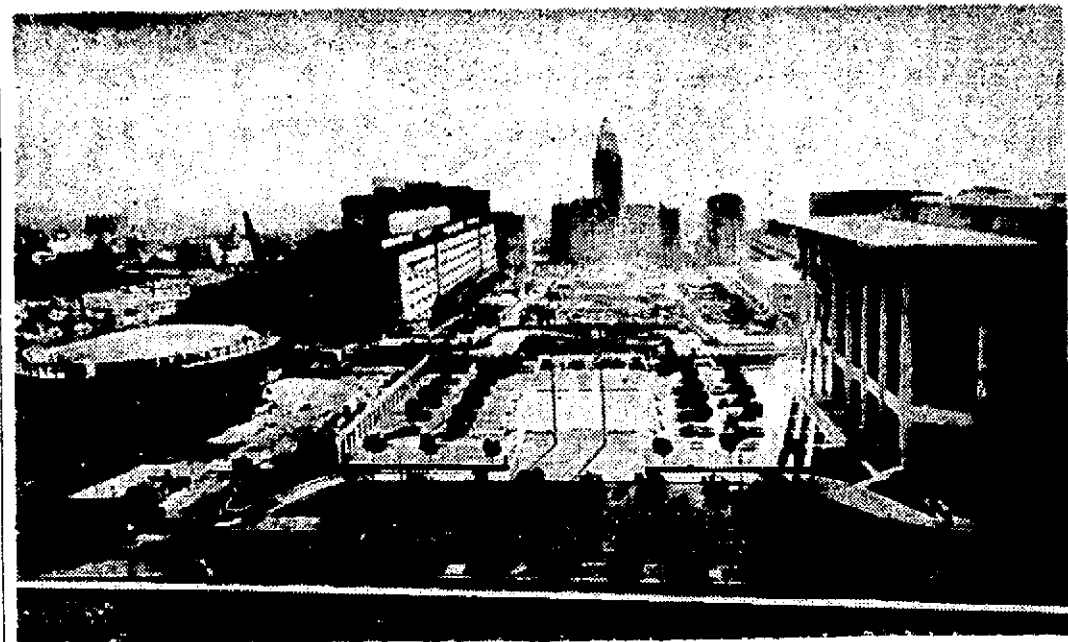

Fund Raising Tips
Among her pointers:

1. Make the donation request startlingly high; donors appreciate the compliment.
2. Give the campaign prestige; donors like to be associated with important people and organizations.
3. Personalize the gift; emphasize what the donor can get out of it for himself, his prestige, his employees.
4. Be patient; never apply pressure, but return to a prospect several times if necessary.
5. Listen to what people have to say; "I let them tell me what they don't like about the Los Angeles Times."
6. If you lose a contact, write it off and go on to another; don't waste time on someone who won't be convinced.

More Cuban Women Will be Used in Harvesting Crops

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The wife of Cuban Defense Minister Raul Castro says that more and more women will be recruited for work in harvesting farm crops, according to Havana radio.

Vilma Espin was quoted by the broadcast Wednesday night as saying "Fidel Castro has given reality to laws that make women equal to men."

"He has made special plans for women," she said. "Now women will take care of all gardens, especially those producing commercial flowers."

Proposed Circus Stamp Blows Into Two-Ring Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office department's decision to issue a new stamp has turned into a two-ring circus controversy.

The fight began Tuesday when it was announced that a new five-cent postage stamp commemorating the American Circus would first be issued at Delavan, Wis., next May 2.

The announcement was made by Rep. Lynn Stalbaum, D-Wis., who noted that the Mabie Brothers circus established its winter headquarters in Delavan in 1847.

But Rep. Vernon Thomson, R-Wis., disputed the selection of Delavan and said that Baraboo, birthplace of the Ringling Bros. circus, had a better claim to being the cradle of the circus.

"It is shocking, in view of Baraboo's circus history and background, that the postmaster general should have picked Delavan," Thomson said.

Thomson pointed out that Baraboo, which is in his 3rd

District, had been selected as the site of the World Circus Museum and that circus families like the Ringlings and Gollmars had headquarters in Baraboo.

Meanwhile, Stalbaum said that 26 different circuses made Delavan, in his district, their winter home. He also pointed out that 80 great circus stars of the 19th century are buried in Delavan cemeteries.

Wauapaca Youth Loses Right to Drive After Hit and Run Accident

WAUPACA — The instructional driving permit of Dennis G. Reetz, 16, 514 Mill St., was suspended for 60 days Wednesday after he admitted leaving the scene of an accident on Session Street at 8:25 p.m. Tuesday.

Reetz was charged with hit and run driving and violation of his instruction permit. City police said Reetz' car struck a vehicle owned by Martin H. Plawski, route 4.

The accident resulted in more than $100 damage, city police testified in Municipal Justice Court.

Dina Merrill, Lansing Are Boone Guests

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — Daniel Boone has a well-done adventure yarn in "The Tamarack Massacre Affair," and some good acting by guests Robert Lansing and Dina Merrill. She plays a British spy who says she has escaped an Indian massacre. The idea is to get the settlers and militia to attack the chiefs of the Iroquois who are near Boonesborough to negotiate a treaty with the Americans. (Color)

7-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — It's getting more difficult all the time for the population of Gilligan's Island not to get rescued. Zsa Zsa Gabor comes to their little paradise tonight as dreadfully rich Erika Tiffany-Smith. She is searching for an island on which to build a luxury hotel, but a man gets in her eye — the Professor. (Color)

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7-12) — There's a funny running gag in My Three Sons, as a fellow businessman of Fred MacMurray's keeps running into Fred while he is doing odd jobs like delivering papers, washing cars and windows and so on. (Color)

7:30-8 (Channels 11-6-9) — O.K. Crackerbyl decides to join an exclusive club and he picks the most exclusive — The Tarriers, with a membership list of three wealthy old gentlemen and a staff of 14. Only he falls into a beautifully laid trap set by the old men who know just exactly how to handle a member of the nouveau riche. (Color)

7:30-8:30 (Channels 4-5) — Laredo has another very amusing episode in "A Medal for Reese." Seems Rangers William Smith and Peter Brown, guarding an Army payroll, are duped by a "lady in distress," which leaves the way open for the "French Army" to heist the money. So off the boys go, with Neville Brand in tow, to recover the loot. (Color)

8-8:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Bewitched has another formula show, with some amusing scenes, but not enough. Darren and Samantha head for a mountain vacation in a cabin owned by Darren's boss, and up for sale. It's a ramshackle affair until Sam twitches her nose a few times and turns it into a dream retreat.

8-10 (Channels 2-7-12) — If you like puppy love, fine scenic shots of Italy and pretty girls, "Rome Adventure" on The Thursday Night Movies should satisfy you. Angie Dickinson, Suzanne Pleshette are the girls, and Troy Donahue and Rossano Brazzi the men in this four-sided "triangle." Al Hirt supplies some of his fine music. (Color)

9-10 (Channels 11-6-9) — Ben Quick gets in more trouble on The Long, Hot Summer when an escaped convict comes to his home and steals some supplies. Ben pursues the man, is seen talking to him, and is immediately suspected of helping the man elude his pursuers.

9-10 (Channels 4-5) — Stanley Holloway, being very British, and Homer and Jethro being very country, supply some amusing moments on a lively edition of The Dean Martin Show. And for fans of girl singers, there's a parley in Janis Paige and Joanie Sommers. Richard Hearne, with his funny "Lancer Dance," Louis Prima and Gia Malone, and Sam Butera and the Witnesses complete the roster. (Color)

Little Strike Progress

Baraboo Powder
Plant to Reopen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talks in the gunpowder strike that threatens some ammunition supplies to U.S. forces in Viet Nam continue today amid signs of growing government impatience.

Slight progress was reported early this morning when discussions broke up about 3 a.m. EST. They were to resume six hours later.

After an implied federal deadline failed to break the deadlocked negotiations Wednesday, the Army announced it was reactivating a mothballed plant to make munitions.

"It looks like we've still got a lot of work to do," Chief Federal Mediator William E. Simkin said of the talks between three striking unions and the Olin Mathieson Co. plant in East Alton, Ill.

The plant has been making gunpowder used in machine-gun, rifle and tracer bullets and 20mm cannon shells—all primary ammunition used by U.S. fighting men in the war against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Although the Army said it was immediately starting reactivation of its Badger gunpowder plant in Baraboo, Wis., it said the past eight years—the Pentagon said it would take six months to get it into production.

The plant is operated under contract by Olin Mathieson.

Federal officials would not say how low gunpowder stocks have dwindled in the 30-day East Alton strike, but warned of a critical shortage unless there was a settlement soon.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Wednesday the national interest demanded an immediate settlement before the day was out, but the talks wore on into today, dashing earlier optimism.

Expect End
Wirtz said that "in theory" U.S. forces in Viet Nam could run out of ammunition eventually unless there was a settlement, but that he expected an end to the strike before any shortage developed.

The AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists represents 3,800 of the 4,200 striking Olin Mathieson workers. The AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Employees Trade Council represent the rest.

Simkin, in calling the two smaller unions to Washington Wednesday night, had reported "some progress" with the machinists, who have been negotiating here under heavy federal pressure since Monday.

Although President Johnson has not publicly stepped into the dispute, he was reported prepared to halt the strike for 80 days with a Taft-Hartley court injunction if necessary as a last resort to prevent an ammunition shortage.

Men Can Equal Machine

Gemini 7's pilots, Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., and the Gemini 6 crew, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, had America's most dramatic and important space venture to describe.

Borman and Lovell circled the globe 206 times during 14 days in space, proving to doctors' satisfaction man could adequately adapt to long voyages in weightlessness. They returned to earth Dec. 18.

"Man has demonstrated he has the ability to equal the machine in space," Dr. Charles A. Berry, the flight surgeon, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Berkeley, Calif., Wednesday night in describing the Gemini 6 flight.

And, Schirra and Stafford successfully demonstrated the technique of space rendezvous with another orbiting vehicle — a maneuver vital on a moon journey — by catching and flying in formation with Gemini 7 for about seven hours Dec. 15.

Together, the astronauts brought home virtually every manned spaceflight record.

Rendezvous and an actual link-up between two vehicles in space must be mastered before America would risk rocketing three men toward the moon, hopefully before the end of this decade.

The reason for such importance: the two men who leave the mothership in orbit around the moon for a descent in a tiny excursion craft to the lunar surface must rocket back to the mothership and dock with it for a return journey to earth.

The remaining five two-man Gemini missions, all planned in 1966, will be designed to refine the rendezvous and link-up with an unmanned Agena rocket.

Gemini 7 was primarily a medical search to see if man should fear "space. Doctors

Air Moratorium Continues

Places in Show of Muscle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong struck today in and around Saigon, within the shadow of the big U.S. Marine base at Da Nang and near the Cambodian frontier. The stepped-up demonstration of their prowess came on the seventh day of the moratorium in the U.S. air war against the Communist North.

New evidence of Communist terror tactics was seen in the disclosure by a U.S. military spokesman that three captured U.S. Marines and eight South Vietnamese soldiers had been murdered after their capture in Quang Ngai Province on Dec. 16. The bodies were found in shallow graves and appeared to have been shot repeatedly in the head at close range.

Hit in Head
The spokesman attributed the slayings to the 18th North Vietnamese Regiment in the area and said one of the victims — whose nationality was not disclosed — had been struck in the head with a sharp instrument.

The U.S. spokesman said the three Marines and their Vietnamese comrades who were executed were captured during a hunt for the North Vietnamese regiment near Ba To, in the hills 20 miles south of Quang Ngai City and 320 miles northeast of Saigon.

The bodies were discovered four days later in an isolated area by a body recovery squad. The squad also found the graves of an American Special Forces sergeant and two Vietnamese soldiers but the spokesman said they apparently had died of combat wounds.

In Saigon, a Vietnamese journalist whose pro-American articles brought him threats from the Viet Cong was shot to death this afternoon as he rode home by bicycle. Police said the newsman, Tu Chong, 35, of the daily newspaper Chinh Luan, was the first Saigon newspaperman the Communists had assassinated. The killer escaped.

Before dawn 500 Viet Cong drove a South Vietnamese militia company from a government stronghold only 4 miles from the outer defenses of the big Marine base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the third time in 10 weeks that the Communists had overrun Hill 60.

Three companies of Vietnamese rangers tried to move in on the hill this afternoon but were pinned down by automatic weapons and mortars. Heavy rains prevented air strikes, but artillery pounded the Viet Cong.

In the western jungles of Chau Doc, along the Cambodian border, the Viet Cong tore into a Vietnamese company at an outpost, inflicted heavy casualties and came back an hour later to hit this one and a militia post in the vicinity. They poured 50-caliber machine-gun fire in a steady drone, then slipped away with some parting shots at flare planes.

Communist forces were on the move on the waterways 15 to 25 miles southeast of Saigon itself but were caught by three armed U.S. Army helicopters. In a running battle, the helicopters sank five sampans and one barge and killed eight Viet Cong, a spokesman reported.

Renew Attacks
The Reds renewed mortar and infantry attacks in Quang Ngai province 60 miles south of Da Nang after overrunning the district town of Minh Long Wednesday. Artillery and 42 tactical air strikes were directed against the Communists. Reports said the area thronged with Viet Cong.

A serious terrorist incident was narrowly averted when police discovered four mines planted in a basket of fruit in a crowded bus depot in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter.

With the bombing pause nearly a week old, a U.S. military spokesman reported: "There is no change at all in the situation on the hill in the bombings of North Viet Nam."

The air moratorium began early on Christmas Eve and now exceeds the suspension of air raids in May. Hanoi broadcasts today did not acknowledge the bombing lull but instead emphasized reports of the unabated U.S. and South Vietnamese air action against the guerrillas in the South. These attacks "obviously contrast with U.S. authorities' allegations of peace and negotiations," one broadcast said.

Photographic Missions
U.S. sources in Washington said that American Air Force and Navy photographic planes are continuing to range over North Vietnamese territory as a

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada is importing Communist arms, but they're sporting goods, not the military kind. Dealers say Peking's air rifles are better than American models.

More than 16,000 rifles, shotguns, pistols, revolvers and air rifles were imported from Communist countries during the first half of 1965, according to government trade figures made public this week.

The total value was only $66,044, a negligible part of the $4,543,679 worth of such imports from all countries. The Communist arms came from Czechoslovakia, Red China, East Germany, Hungary and the Soviet Union. No Communist countries are listed among Canada's suppliers of nonsecret military weapons and ordnance.

President Breaks Long Period of Quiet to Tell
Of U.S.-Canada Mission

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The White House announced today another presidential peace mission—this one to Canada — and indicated others would be forthcoming as part of an effort to emphasize the nation's quest for peace in Viet Nam.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, announced that McGeorge Bundy, President Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs, flew secretly to Ottawa Wednesday night for a meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Johnson planned to confer by telephone with Pearson later today, Moyers said. Canada, along with Poland and India, is a member of the International Control Commission in Viet Nam.

Breaks Silence
Breaking a prolonged White House silence on obviously coordinated moves to mount an American peace offensive, Moyers said the recent comings and goings of American diplomats were connected with an effort to emphasize this country's peaceful objectives.

These included a call by U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg on Pope Paul VI and a European trip by roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, which took him first to Warsaw, Poland, and today to Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Moyers said more ambassadorial travels were likely, particularly by Harriman.

"The President in the last few weeks," he said, "has felt it was especially appropriate for more leaders of the world to know his views on Asia."

Moyers said that "peace remains the foremost objective of the United States in Asia and... everything this administration is doing is designed to bring about conditions in which peace is possible."

He added: "We have a genuine desire to cooperate with anyone to whom peace is the desired goal that it is with us."

Joseph Laitin, assistant press secretary, had been able to give little information when asked earlier about the ambassadorial visits.

Presidential envoys W. Averell Harriman and Arthur J. Goldberg paid surprise calls at Warsaw and the Vatican, and were reported ready to carry the U.S. peace bid to other capitals before returning to America.

Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, met for one hour Wednesday with Pope Paul VI after arriving secretly aboard a presidential jet.

He told newsmen today that Johnson shared the Pope's desire to move "this grave conflict from the battlefield to the bargaining table where ultimately it will have to be resolved."

Report to LBJ
He also described his trip as an "effort to re-emphasize the U.S. willingness to do all it can for peace," and said he would report the Pope's view only to the President.

Goldberg was to leave Rome tonight after talks with Premier Aldo Moro and other Italian officials.

He wouldn't disclose his next destination.

Roving Ambassador Harriman arrived unannounced in Warsaw aboard a U.S. Air Force jet and promptly met with Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki.

The U.S. Embassy said Harriman, at Johnson's request, gave the Polish government Washington's views on the Viet Nam situation.

Today, he spent two hours with Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka, but told newsmen only that their session included talk of the past.

"We are old," he said. "We knew each other during the war."

Later in the day, Harriman left for Belgrade, capital of Communist Yugoslavia, in his quest for ways to end the fighting in Viet Nam.

Yugoslavia is leader of a group of nonaligned nations favoring Viet Nam negotiations. Poland has relations with Communist North Viet Nam and is on the three-national International Commission for the VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican sources said today a message from President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam to Pope Paul VI accusing U.S. leaders of seeking war instead of peace has been received here. The message has put a damper on hopes for negotiations.

The sources said the message from Hanoi came as U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg arrived Wednesday on his special mission to the pontiff. They reported the message "is being carefully studied."

Living Costs Up Again in November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs, rising at the fastest rate in seven years, went up another two-tenths of one per cent last month, the Labor Department said today.

Prices were higher for all major items — including housing, clothing, transportation and medical care — except food, which held steady.

The increase brought the government's consumer price index to 110.6. The figure means it cost $11.06 in November to purchase items worth $10 in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

Hope to Hold
The rise in typical family living costs brought the value of a 1957-59 dollar down to 90.4 cents.

Despite the record high level of the index, Deputy Commissioner Robert J. Myers of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said there was reason to hope that future price rises could be held to moderate levels.

He said the November increase bucked a seasonal trend in which prices usually hold steady and that a further increase could be expected when December figures are all in.

"This is a real increase," Myers said of the November rise.

Average after-tax earnings of factory workers were at an all-time high of $98.26 a week for workers with three dependents and $90.50 for single workers.

Consumer prices were up 1.7 per cent above November a year ago, compared with an annual rate of increase of 1.2 per cent over the previous five years.

Highest Rate
The 1.7 per cent figure was the highest annual rate of increase since 1958, when prices went up 2.8 per cent over the year.

Myers said he did not believe the war in Viet Nam was exerting a very important influence on consumer prices.

He added, "I think it is very important to keep watching prices because of the psychological situation." He said he meant it was unwise to become accustomed to increases.

More than 200,000 workers in their labor contracts will receive wage increases ranging from 1 to 3 cents per hour because of the November rise in the index.

Hope to Hold
The rise in typical family living costs brought the value of a 1957-59 dollar down to 90.4 cents.

Despite the record high level of the index, Deputy Commissioner Robert J. Myers of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said there was reason to hope that future price rises could be held to moderate levels.

He said the November increase bucked a seasonal trend in which prices usually hold steady and that a further increase could be expected when December figures are all in.

"This is a real increase," Myers said of the November rise.

Average after-tax earnings of factory workers were at an all-time high of $98.26 a week for workers with three dependents and $90.50 for single workers.

Every Municipality in State Receives Part of Tax Allotment

Payments totaling more than half a million dollars are being received in the Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Calumet four-county area from the State Highway Commission. The payments, which go to every city, village and town in Wisconsin, are part of the $7,805,594 highway tax allotment on motor vehicles distributed by the state. The $548,965 for the four-county area is the final portion of about $44.5 million in state highway funds returned to local

Pipe Line Firms Plan Expansion In Midwest

Projects Would Cost $75.6 Million if Approved by FPC

DETROIT (AP) — Two pipe line firms said Tuesday they plan a $75.6 million expansion program which would allow transmission of an additional 77 billion cubic feet of gas per year to the Midwest.

Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co. and the American Louisiana Pipe Line Co., said they have filed a joint application with the Federal Power Commission to construct the new transmission facilities.

Construction of the pipe lines will begin as soon as the commission approves the project, the firms said. Completion is scheduled for early next fall, to help the firms meet peak winter daily demands of 2.432 billion cubic feet.

70 Per Cent Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., will purchase approximately 70 per cent of the new salable supply, some 135 million cubic feet of gas per day, the firms said.

The remainder is scheduled for sale to Milwaukee Gas Light Co., and 38 other utilities, including Michigan Gas and Electric Co., and Michigan Gas Utilities Co.

The two pipe line firms are in the process of merging into a single company, with Michigan Wisconsin to take over operations of American Louisiana and construct the new transmission lines.

municipal units of government during the year, in addition to $17.8 million in aids distributed directly to the 72 counties.

Distributed in March Statewide basic aids of about $6.4 million were distributed in March, followed by supplementary payments of $14.1 million distributed in April and $16.2 million in August.

The present allocation is the so-called "privilege highway tax" that since 1931 has replaced the general property taxes previously assessed locally on autos and trucks. The distribution is based on registrations and title fees for vehicles customarily kept in the respective municipalities.

Winnebago County municipalities receive the largest total in the current distribution in the four-county area, $214,365. Allocations for cities include $23,267 for Menasha; $41,372 for Neenah; $77,384 for Oshkosh, and $3,960 for Omro, with another $2,417 for the village of Winnebago. The 16 towns of Winnebago County receive a $65,962 total.

Outagamie Total The Outagamie County total of $204,465 breaks down into $86,191 for Appleton; $14,307 for Kaukauna; $2,082 for New London; $6,716 for Seymour; $834 for Bear Creek; $1,644 for Black Creek; $2,264 for Combined Locks; $2,564 for Hortonville; $6,299 for Kimberly; $7,374 for

Earl F. Moldenhauer in Service for 32 Years

Clintonville's 'Mr. Postmaster' Retires

BY MILDRED LAIB Post-Crescent Correspondent

CLINTONVILLE — After nearly 32 years of service, Assistant Postmaster Earl F. Moldenhauer will retire when the office closes today.

Although his retirement would not be compulsory until next May 30, he has joined many thousands of federal employees who because of special legislation passed by the Congress last October were granted a bonus for retirement on or before Dec. 30, 1965.

Moldenhauer was appointed postmaster by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1934 and took office on March 16 of that year. He was active in the political campaign of 1932 with Albert G. Schmiedeman, candidate for governor, and E. Ryan Duffy, candidate for United States Senator, and Moldenhauer was elected to the state assembly in the Democratic landslide of that year.

Served on Committees In the Legislature Moldenhauer was appointed chairman of the committee on taxation in the lower house and was a member of the Governor's Committee on Legislation at the regular and special sessions of the Wisconsin Legislature in 1933-34.

After serving as postmaster longer than any Clintonville postmaster, Moldenhauer requested transfer to assistant postmaster when Miss Louise Schroeder retired in April, 1953.

The postal volume is more than five times greater today than in the depression years of the 30's. There have been many changes in its operation including centralized financial operation to regional offices and decentralization of the Department in Washington, Moldenhauer said.

No More Trains All mail was received in Clintonville by trains in 1934 when he took over. Now mail trains have been discontinued and all mail is received by truck or air.

Only one employee, Clerk Otto Durkey, remains on the local staff with longer service than Moldenhauer.

Two events stand out in Moldenhauer's postal experience. The most pleasing event was the construction of the present post office building, completed in 1936.

It was a happy moving day when the postal equipment was transferred from cramped quarters now occupied by the Spiegel Electric Shop, 10th Street, into the new spacious quarters, Moldenhauer recalls. Employees who participated in the big moving day, and are still residing in retirement in the Clintonville area are Louise Schroeder, assistant postmaster; Leonard Rohrer, clerk; John Fralish, Henry Korb and Ruben Lueck, carriers; and Kenneth Darling, rural carrier.

Exchange Gunfire The second event, not so pleasant, Moldenhauer points out, was the post office burglary Sept. 18, 1937. Burglars blew open the post office vault and the inner safe and made off with more than $10,000 in cash and stamps. Clintonville police chased the burglars, there was an exchange of gunfire, but the burglars escaped. However, the car, burglar tools and equipment were recovered from a swamp in the Town of Bear Creek; and the complete loot with the exception of about 40 cents was recovered from the hay loft of a nearby barn. Burglars had apparently hid the loot waiting for the pressure of the search to ease off.

Moldenhauer was active in the Wisconsin Chapter, National Association of Postmasters, was its state secretary for 10 years and president of the chapter in 1950-51. While secretary, he founded a state postmaster publication, the Badger Postmaster, was its editor for 11 years. Last year, it was judged the fourth best such publication in the United States.

While president of the chapter, he instituted the first

Freedom Firemen Gather $2,500 Funds Raised for New Church

ONEIDA — Through the efforts of the Freedom Fire Department, $2,500 has been collected for the new Immaculate Conception Catholic Church to replace the one destroyed by fire this fall.

The funds will be used with an insurance settlement of $101,201.98 to build a new, larger church and new rectory, said Rev. Adrian Traeger, O. Praem., pastor.

The parish will borrow to build a $25,000-$30,000 rectory which will include quarters for the housekeeper. A new home for the parish's teaching nuns was completed this fall. Disposition of the present rectory will be made later.

Begin in April Construction on the new facilities will begin in April, said Father Traeger. Parish members will serve as contractors as they did when the last church was constructed. It saved the parish approximately $40,000, he explained, because much of the work was donated.

The new church will conform to changes in the Roman Catholic liturgy. The sacristy will be at the front of the church so the priest can walk to the sanctuary during the entrance hymn.

The new altar will be centered in the sanctuary and face the congregation instead of facing the back wall as it did previously. An altar of repose with a tabernacle will be located elsewhere in the sanctuary.

Father Traeger said would cost about $3,000 to $5,000 to add another 16 feet to the plan of the first church. The new rectory will be attached to the church by a fireproofed breezeway at the west end of the church.

The old convent will be moved from its present location. It was sold at the parish's annual picnic auction last summer.

When construction is completed all parish facilities will be located on the west side of the road and an expanded parking area will add a needed safety factor. Previously cars that could not park in the present lot had to park along the busy county trunk highway.

Single Segment

Largest single segment of the $2,000 donation came from a benefit dance sponsored by the firemen. The services of band, dance hall and dance hall inspector were donated.

In addition banks at Seymour, Black Creek, Appleton, Freedom, Little Chute, Kaukauna, Green Bay, Kimberly and Wrightstown served as collection points for public donations.

Father Traeger thanked individuals and firms in the Fox Valley area "for their spirit of cooperation and help due to the total loss of our church."

"We are especially indebted to the Freedom Volunteer Fire Department and Fire Chief Ed Vandenberg, not only for their long hours of work in the middle of the night controlling the fire, but also for their efforts in making all the returns possible," he said.

Father Traeger said he was expanding the church plans to make it available to more people, particularly those who donated. Additional pledges of assistance will be fulfilled when construction starts.

Park Board Decision

New London Builds Central Skating Rink

NEW LONDON — A large municipal skating rink has been constructed by the street department on the athletic field at Oshkosh and Washington streets.

Dennis R. Kraft, former assistant planner of the Ventura, Calif., Planning Commission, has been hired as chief land use planner by the Wolf River Regional Basin Planning Commission.

decided to construct a centrally located rink this year for several reasons. Rinks at Pfeiffer Park, Washington High School and Lincoln Junior High School required three times the maintenance. Fred Noack, chairman said.

Use did not warrant having separate rinks for each portion of the city. Facilities at all but the Washington site did not meet all needs, he added.

School officials reported that water ran into the basement of the Lincoln building. The Lincoln School rink was built on the asphalt paving around the school. Water also ran into the sidewalk and street making it hazardous.

The new rink will have a warming shed and lights. The rink is currently open for use, Ray Pelishek, public works director, said.

Ed Vandenberg, Freedom Fire Chief, hands a check for $809.82 to Rev. Adrian Traeger, right, pastor of Immaculate Conception parish whose church was destroyed by fire this fall. It was part of public donations totaling $2,500 which will be used to build the new church. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A large scenic area on the Lake Michigan shore within easy driving range of the Fox River Valley was assured for public recreational development today with the gift of a valuable tract of land to the State Conservation Commission by the Kohler Co.

Ultimately planned to cover about 650 acres, the shoreland tract, four miles south of Sheboygan, adjoins the existing Terry Andrae State Park of 260 acres. Details of the gift to the state in honor of John Michael Kohler, founder of the Kohler Co., in 1873, were announced here today by Kohler officials and officers of the State Conservation Department at a joint press conference. L. P. Voigt, state conservation director, said the area would be developed immediately and would be called John Michael Kohler State Park.

Lease Other Lands

The company's gift will be supplemented by the leasing of additional company lands to the state, the officials said. Herbert V. Kohler, board chairman of the firm, today presented the deed to the property to Guido Rahr of Manitowoc, a veteran member of the conservation commission.

The Kohler Co. head is the younger son of the firm's founder. Another son, the late Walter Kohler Sr., was governor of the state from 1928 to 1930. Walter Kohler Jr., a grandson, was governor from 1950 to 1956. Herbert Kohler said that the decision to preserve the large forest and dunes area on the lake shore for public use was made by the family nearly 30 years ago, when Walter J. Kohler Sr., headed the company.

Rahr described the gift tract as the largest land parcel on Lake Michigan between Chicago and Door county in private ownership and said the park will be one of the unique recreational areas within reach of the bulk of the Wisconsin population. The tract is about 50 miles north of Milwaukee, and about the same distance from most of the residents of the Fox River Valley, the second major population concentration within the state.

Covers 468 Acres

The company land made available for public use today encompasses about 468 acres, about half it deeded to the state outright. The remainder will be put into public use by long term lease. The conservation department said it would acquire other lands to expand the area considerably. A company official said the firm hopes that the leased acreage can also be given outright to the state in the future.

Rahr noted that the new park will have two miles of unbroken lake shore line free of off-shore barriers that might disturb the free wave action needed to preserve a clean and gradually sloping sand beach.

Interesting Features

Voigt said he will employ landscape architects immediately to prepare a comprehensive development plan next year. He said the plan will be drawn so that as little as possible of the natural beauty will be disturbed, but with maximum development of recreational possibilities for about 2,000,000 persons living within an hour's auto drive. The public will be given limited use opportunities next summer, he said, and the tract will be coordinated for management purposes with the adjacent Terry Andrae park. There will be bathing beaches and bath houses, canoeing, picnic areas, nature and hiking trails, bridle paths and other attractive features.

Dairymen Want Economic-Type Price Formula

To Ask Government To Establish New Milk Market Plan

CHICAGO (AP) — Spokesmen for dairy farmers in six Midwestern states said today they will ask the Department of Agriculture to consider an economic-type formula in establishing a market price which handlers must pay producers for Class 1 milk.

The Associated Dairymen Inc., acting on behalf of milk producers, said the department would be requested at a hearing in Chicago Feb. 1 to consider factors other than supply-demand alone.

Class 1 milk is used for bottling.

A. L. McWilliams, general manager of the Pure Milk Association, Chicago, acting as spokesman for his organization and other members of Associated Dairymen, said these proposals would be offered to improve prices to producers in 12 midwestern markets:

Economics-Type

1. An economic-type formula which considers the wholesale index, consumer purchasing power, prices paid by farmers, prices received by farmers, and the Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk pricing formula as the basis for determining the market order Class 1 price to producers.

2. That the Chicago market order be amended so that only plants which send at least half of their milk to fluid markets during the fall months shall be entitled to full participation in the Chicago pool.

The 12 federal marketing areas involved in the proposals are in parts of Illinois, Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Wisconsin.

Psychology of Color
Polachek discussed the psychology of color, explaining benefits of certain color schemes in quiet areas such as the library, counsel rooms or executive offices, and another type of color combinations in the cafeteria, music rooms or the hallway.

He said the firm will furnish a representative for further consultations when final color accents are chosen, as well as to assist in the selection of furnishings.

Board members spent considerable time viewing slides of other hot lunch kitchen facilities which had been visited by the board and Supt. K. O. Rawson. Certain changes are being contemplated in placement and area of kitchen equipment in the new school.

Convention Delegates
Board members Harland Kirchner, John A. Sizemore and Mrs. George McCauley and Rawson will attend the Jan. 19-21 convention of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards, Business Officials and Administrators, Milwaukee.

Rawson outlined some of the detailed work which must be done in order to qualify the district for federal funds available in the government's anti-poverty program.

First proposals for such financial assistance will be reviewed in Madison early next week. Obtaining such federal funds is complicated due to interpretation of some federal and state laws.

These differences must be reconciled, and requests for aid made in accordance with both sets of statutes.

Brillion Nips Alumni in Overtime Win

BRILLION — An amazing comeback in the fourth quarter enabled a hot-shooting alumni team to force the Brillion Lions into an overtime before bowing 75-72 Tuesday night.

The Lions led at halftime 40-31 and were ahead by eight points after the third stanza.

At that point the alumni squad came to life. Led by Gary Behnke and Jim Ross, they outscored the high schoolers 25-7 in the last period.

The current edition of Lions were clinging to a two-point lead when Warren Wolf, a guard from the 1964 team, was fouled with a second left in regulation time. He calmly sunk both gift shots to force the game into overtime.

John Haun paced the varsity with 27 points. Dennis Behnke had 13 and Russ Rohrdanz and Gary Grassel each had 12.

Marion Breaks Contracts With Building Firms

Failure to Complete Work on New School Cited by Board

MARION — Joint School District No. 3 is breaking contracts with Green Bay and Little Chute firms for failure to complete contracted work on the new grade school.

Architect Quentin Hoffman, Green Bay, advised the district school board at a special meeting Tuesday night to break contracts with Tweet Heating Co., Green Bay, and Hietpas Inc., Little Chute, a plumbing firm.

Workers of the two companies walked off their jobs about three weeks ago, honoring a picket representing Trade Laborers Local No. 931 and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local No. 577.

Non-Union Labor
The picket was protesting the hiring of non-union labor by Kucksdorf Construction Co., contractors for the building. A spokesman for the firm said it never was contacted regarding union labor and that the men on the job preferred to be non-union.

The union picket was honored by the electricians and plumbers, but last week was picketed in turn by two Marion youngsters.

They protested the slowup in completion of the grade school. Temporary classrooms are being used at present by the Marion school system.

Hilbert May Reactivate Cub Scouting

HILBERT — A decision on whether Cub Scouting will be reactivated here will be made by parents Jan. 12 at a meeting in the village hall, according to Tom Wright, east district executive of the Fox Valley Boy Scout Council.

A group of parents met recently following Wright's appeals to the Hilbert Advancement Association and Hilbert Public, St. Mary Catholic and St. Peter Lutheran schools where he discussed advantages of Cub Scouting.

Preliminary plans call for establishing three dens, two in Hilbert and one in Potter.

Wright said if Cub Scouting is reactivated, the Potter den will hold its weekly meetings there and join the Hilbert groups for a monthly pack meeting.

Boys in the third through fifth grades are eligible to join the movement, which has been dormant here for nearly four years.

Wright said some parents already have shown interest in becoming leaders, but he urged all parents of prospective Cubs to attend the meeting since reorganization depends a great deal on parents' enthusiasm.

The rise of the consumer price index to another record in November was regarded as bullish background for the stock market.

Mrs. Bosser said they were returning from a visit with a daughter, Mrs. William Joyce in East Lansing, Mich. They had stayed in Milwaukee Tuesday night and were traveling north between Fond du Lac and Oshkosh when Mr. Bosser died unexpectedly.

Born April 27, 1890 in Appleton, he went to Chicago and worked in a clothing manufacturing firm at the age of 17. He completed his high school education and studied law at night while working during the day, receiving his L.L.B. degree from Loyola University in Chicago in 1914. Extinguish Fire Aboard Ammo Carrier

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A stubborn fire that burned for four days in the hold of a ship carrying 127 tons of small arms ammunition, was extinguished today.

The Coast Guard said the water level in the flooded ship was above the ammunition and the cargo which had been burning, and all danger had passed. No injuries were reported. Estimates of damage to the ship and its cargo were not immediately available.

The No. 3 hold of the Neva West was flooded after the vessel was grounded 30 miles down the Mississippi River near New Orleans. The ammunition and a cargo of hops were stored in the hold.

Firemen and members of the crew have been fighting the fire since the ship entered the Mississippi River Sunday.

Baraboo Powder Plant to Reopen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talks in the gunpowder strike that threatens some ammunition supplies to U.S. forces in Viet Nam continue today amid signs of growing government impatience.

Slight progress was reported early this morning when discussions broke up about 3 a.m. EST. They were to resume six hours later.

After an implied federal deadline failed to break the deadlock negotiations Wednesday, the Army announced it was reactivating a mothballed plant to make munitions.

"It looks like we've still got a lot of work to do," Chief Federal Mediator William E. Simkin said of the talks between three striking unions and the Olin Mathieson Co. plant in East Alton, Ill.

The plant has been making gunpowder used in machine-gun, rifle and tracer bullets and 20mm cannon shells—all primary ammunition used by U.S. fighting men in the war against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Although the Army said it was immediately starting reactivation of its Badger gunpowder plant in Baraboo, Wis. — idle the past eight years—the Pentagon said it would take six months to get it into production.

The plant is operated under contract by Olin Mathieson.

Federal officials would not say how low gunpowder stocks have dwindled in the 30-day East Alton strike, but warned of a critical shortage unless there was a settlement soon.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Wednesday the 'national interest demanded an immediate settlement before the day was out, but the talks wore on into today, dashing earlier optimism.

Expect End
Wirtz said that "in theory" U.S. forces in Viet Nam could run out of ammunition eventually unless there was a settlement, but that he expected an end to the strike before any shortage developed.

The AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists represents 3,800 of the 4,200 striking Olin Mathieson workers. The AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Employees Trade Council represent the rest.

Simkin, in calling the two smaller unions to Washington Wednesday night, had reported "some progress" with the machinists, who have been negotiating here under heavy federal pressure since Monday.

Although President Johnson has not publicly stepped into the dispute, he was reported prepared to halt the strike for 80 days with a Taft-Hartley court injunction if necessary as a last resort to prevent an ammunition shortage.

Men Can Equal Machine

Astronauts of Gemini Flight Tell World of History-Making Voyage

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — The astronauts of Gemini 7 — who demonstrated man can equal the machine in space — met with the astronauts of Gemini 6 today to tell the public of their exciting flights that put the United States a step closer to someday reaching the moon.

The four spacemen who staged the world's first space rendezvous sat side by side at a news conference in the Manned Spacecraft Center's main auditorium.

Gemini 7's pilots, Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., and the Gemini 6 crew, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, had America's most dramatic and important space venture to describe.

Borman and Lovell circled the globe 206 times during 14 days in space, proving to doctors' satisfaction man could adequately adapt to long voyages in weightlessness. They returned to earth Dec. 18.

"Man has demonstrated he has the ability to equal the machine in space," Dr. Charles A. Berry, the flight surgeon, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Berkeley, Calif., Wednesday night in describing the Gemini 6 flight.

And, Schirra and Stafford successfully demonstrated the technique of space rendezvous with another orbiting vehicle — a maneuver vital on a moon journey — by catching and flying in formation with Gemini 7 for about seven hours Dec. 15.

Air Moratorium Continues

Viet Cong Strike in Three Places in Show of Muscle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong struck today in and around Saigon, within the shadow of the big U.S. Marine base at Da Nang and near the Cambodian frontier. The stepped-up demonstration of their prowess came on the seventh day of the moratorium in the U.S. air war against the Communist North.

New evidence of Communist terror tactics was seen in the disclosure by a U.S. military spokesman that three captured U.S. Marines and eight South Vietnamese soldiers had been murdered after their capture in Quang Ngai Province on Dec. 16. The bodies were found in shallow graves and appeared to have been shot repeatedly in the head at close range.

Hit in Head

The spokesman attributed the slayings to the 18th North Vietnamese Regiment in the area and said one of the victims — whose nationality was not disclosed — had been struck in the head with a sharp instrument.

The U.S. spokesman said the three Marines and their Vietnamese comrades who were executed were captured during a hunt for the North Vietnamese regiment near Ba To, in the hills 20 miles south of Quang Ngai City and 320 miles northeast of Saigon.

The bodies were discovered four days later in an isolated area by a body recovery squad. The squad also found the graves of an American Special Forces sergeant and two Vietnamese soldiers but the spokesman said they apparently had died of combat wounds.

In Saigon, a Vietnamese journalist whose pro-American articles brought him threats from the Viet Cong was shot to death this afternoon as he rode home by bicycle. Police said the newsman, Tu Chong, 35, of the daily newspaper Chinh Luan, was the first Saigon newspaperman the Communists had assassinated. The killer escaped.

Before dawn 500 Viet Cong drove a South Vietnamese militia company from a government stronghold only 4 miles from the outer defenses of the big Marine base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the third time in 10 weeks that the Communists had overrun Hill 60.

Three companies of Vietnamese rangers tried to move in on the hill this afternoon but were pinned down by automatic weapons and mortars. Heavy rains prevented air strikes, but artillery pounded the Viet Cong.

In the western jungles of Chau Doc, along the Cambodian border, the Viet Cong tore into a Vietnamese company at an outpost, inflicted heavy casualties and came back an hour later to hit this one and a militia post in the vicinity. They poured 50-caliber machine-gun fire in a steady drone, then slipped away with some parting shots at flare planes.

Communist forces were on the move on the waterways 15 to 25 miles southeast of Saigon itself but were caught by three armed U. S. Army helicopters. In a running battle, the helicopters sank five sampans and one barge and killed eight Viet Cong, a spokesman reported.

Renew Attacks

The Reds renewed mortar and infantry attacks in Quang Ngai province 60 miles south of Da Nang after overrunning the district town of Minh Long Wednesday. Artillery and 42 tactical air strikes were directed against the Communists. Reports said the area thronged with Viet Cong.

A serious terrorist incident was narrowly averted when police discovered four mines planted in a basket of fruit in a crowded bus depot in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter.

With the bombing pause nearly a week old, a U. S. military spokesman reported: "There is no change at all in the situation on the lull in the bombings of North Viet Nam."

The air moratorium began early on Christmas Eve and now exceeds the suspension of air raids in May. Hanoi broadcasts today did not acknowledge the bombing lull but instead emphasized reports of the unabated U. S. and South Vietnamese air action against the guerrillas in the South. These attacks "obviously contrast with U.S. authorities' allegations of peace and negotiations," one broadcast said.

Canadians Importing Red Weapons

Dealers Report
Peking Air Rifles
Better Than U. S.

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada is importing Communist arms, but they're sporting goods, not the military kind. Dealers say Peking's air rifles are better than American models.

More than 16,000 rifles, shotguns, pistols, revolvers and air rifles were imported from Communist countries during the first half of 1965, according to government trade figures made public this week.

The total value was only $66,044, a negligible part of the $4,543,679 worth of such imports from all countries. The Communist arms came from Czechoslovakia, Red China, East Germany, Hungary and the Soviet Union. No Communist countries are listed among Canada's suppliers of nonsecret military weapons and ordnance.

Premier Moro Gets Fanfani Job

ROME (AP) — President Giuseppe Saragat today named Premier Aldo Moro to take over the additional portfolio of foreign minister from Amintore Fanfani, who resigned.

Saragat acted as demands rose from government opponents for Moro's entire center-left coalition to resign over the Fanfani crisis, born of what critics called the foreign minister's amateurish handling of a North Vietnamese peace feeler.

President Breaks Long Period of Quiet to Tell Of U. S.-Canada Mission

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The White House announced today another presidential peace mission—this one to Canada — and indicated others would be forthcoming as part of an effort to emphasize the nation's quest for peace in Viet Nam.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, announced that McGeorge Bundy, President Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs, flew secretly to Ottawa Wednesday night for a meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Johnson planned to confer by telephone with Pearson later today, Moyers said. Canada, along with Poland and India, is a member of the International Control Commission in Viet Nam.

Breaks Silence

Breaking a prolonged White House silence on obviously coordinated moves to mount an American peace offensive, Moyers said the recent comings and goings of American diplomats were connected with an effort to emphasize this country's peaceful objectives.

These included a call by U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg on Pope Paul VI and a European trip by roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman which took him first to Warsaw, Poland, and today to Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Moyers said more ambassadorial travels were likely, particularly by Harriman.

"The President in the last few weeks," he said, "has felt it was especially appropriate for more leaders of the world to know his views on Asia."

Moyers said that "peace remains the foremost objective of the United States in Asia and... everything this administration is doing is designed to bring about conditions in which peace is possible."

He added: "We have a genuine desire to cooperate with anyone to whom peace is the desired goal that it is with us."

Joseph Laitin, assistant press secretary, had been able to give little information when asked earlier about the ambassadorial visits.

Presidential envoys W. Averell Harriman and Arthur J. Goldberg paid surprise calls at Warsaw and the Vatican, and were reported ready to carry the U.S. peace bid to other capitals before returning to America.

Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, met for one hour Wednesday with Pope Paul VI after arriving secretly aboard a presidential jet.

He told newsmen today that Johnson shared the Pope's desire to move "this grave conflict from the battlefield to the bargaining table where ultimately it will have to be resolved."

Report to LBJ

He also described his trip as an "effort to re-emphasize the U.S. willingness to do all it can for peace," and said he would report the Pope's view only to the President.

Goldberg was to leave Rome tonight after talks with Premier Aldo Moro and other Italian officials.

He wouldn't disclose his next destination.

Roving Ambassador Harriman arrived unannounced in Warsaw aboard a U.S. Air Force jet and promptly met with Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki.

The U.S. Embassy said Harriman, at Johnson's request, gave the Polish government Washington's views on the Viet Nam situation.

Today, he spent two hours with Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka, but told newsmen only that their session included talk of the past. "We are old," he said, "we knew each other during the war."

Later in the day, Harriman left for Belgrade, capital of Communist Yugoslavia, in his quest for ways to end the fighting in Viet Nam.

Yugoslavia is leader of a group of nonaligned nations favoring Viet Nam negotiations. Poland has relations with Communist North Viet Nam and is on the three-national interna-

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican sources said today a message from President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam to Pope Paul VI accusing U.S. leaders of seeking war instead of peace has been received here. The message has put a damper on hopes for negotiations.

The sources said the message from Hanoi came as U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg arrived Wednesday on his special mission to the pontiff. They reported the message "is being carefully studied."

Crisis Builds at Acceptance Of Fanfani's Resignation

By GERALD MILLER

ROME (AP) — Italy teetered today on the brink of a new political crisis after Premier Aldo Moro accepted Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani's resignation.

Moro had asked Fanfani to withdraw the resignation. Fanfani submitted it after he came under fire in connection with the report from his friend, Prof. Giorgio La Pira, of a peace feeler from Hanoi.

After Fanfani insisted he was determined to quit on Jan. 6, the premier accepted his resignation Wednesday night.

Fanfani pioneered center-left collaboration between the Catholic Christian Democrats and the Socialists in a government coalition which Moro now heads. Fanfani's followers have long considered Moro too cautious.

Fanfani had said he was resigning to dissociate himself from criticisms La Pira made of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Moro at a party at Fanfani's home. Earlier he had been under fire for passing along to the U.S. government La Pira's report of a peace overture from North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh. Hanoi repudiated the report.

La Pira admitted making the belittling comments but said he was jesting and was quoted out of context. His remarks were reported by the right-wing weekly, Borghese. Fanfani's wife had arranged the meeting at her home between La Pira and a Borghese correspondent, reportedly because she hoped the critical magazine would be impressed by La Pira's sincerity. Fanfani was still in New York at the time, serving as president of the U.N. General Assembly.

Lovell to Visit Milwaukee

Astronaut Accepts Invitation 'Home'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Astronaut James Lovell Jr., copilot for the epic Gemini 7 space flight, will visit his boyhood home of Milwaukee Feb. 23.

Lovell will be honored by state and educational officials the following day in Madison. Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier announced Wednesday night that Lovell had accepted his invitation for a homecoming celebration of the historic space feat.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials also confirmed Lovell would visit Madison Feb. 24, the start of engineering week at the University of Wisconsin.

Both dates are tentative at present. School in Milwaukee: Lovell is a graduate of Solomon Juneau High School in Milwaukee and attended the University of Wisconsin.

His wife, the former Marilyn Gerlach of Milwaukee will accompany the astronaut for the two days of ceremonies. Maier said he was informed Lovell "considers Milwaukee his home town and he is 'delighted' to accept" the invitation.

World's Only Female Foreign Minister Retires

Golda Meir Served In Israeli Posts Since Independence

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — The world's only woman foreign minister, Golda Meir of Israel, is retiring at 67 after 10 years in office.

Mrs. Meir told a meeting of Parliament's Foreign Affairs and Security Committee Tuesday that she is quitting.

Authoritative sources said she would be succeeded by Deputy Premier Abba Eban, former ambassador to the United States and to the United Nations.

Mrs. Meir was appointed foreign minister in June 1956, capping a career that took her from a Milwaukee schoolroom to the major capitals of the world.

Born in Kiev, Russia, on May 3, 1898, she fled with her carpenter father and the rest of the family to the United States when she was 8. She attended primary and high schools in Milwaukee, Wis., and became a grade school teacher there. She also did library work in Milwaukee, Chicago and New York.

Worked in kibbutz: Taking an active interest in Zionism and socialism, she went to Palestine in 1921 with her husband, Morris Myerson. Then 23, she worked in a kibbutz (farm cooperative), helping raise poultry by day and studying Hebrew and Arabic by night.

Her talent for organization came quickly to the fore, and she became active in Histadrut, the general federation of Jewish labor. She expanded it from a trade union into an all-around enterprise that now dominates Israeli industry and commerce.

When the country she helped found became independent in 1948, she became its first minister to the Soviet Union. The next year she became Israel's minister of labor, holding the post for seven years. In 1953, she was also Israel's chief delegate to the United Nations. Named foreign minister in 1956, she changed her name to the Hebrew Meir, meaning "gives light."

Lovell is a native of Cleveland, but moved here with his widowed mother when he was 10.

The Lovells are expecting the birth of their fourth child, and Maier said of the Feb. 23 date: "There is no particular magic in the date. It is, I am told, simply far enough away to safely assure that Mrs. Lovell will be able to share our hospital-ity."

Mother-in-Law Pleased: Lovell's mother-in-law, Mrs. Carl Gerlach of Milwaukee, was pleased when informed of the visit Wednesday night, but laughed, "I thought this telephone call was from them to tell me about the birth of the baby. It should be here by now."

Plans for Milwaukee's celebration were not determined immediately. Under NASA policy, both NASA and the astronaut make final decisions on the particular type of greeting they want.

Gov. Warren Knowles had invited Lovell to visit Wisconsin either Jan. 22 or Feb. 24, although UW officials have said neither date will allow enough time to go through formal procedures of awarding an honorary degree to Lovell, a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy.

Saltonstall Won't Run

Massachusetts Negro To Seek Senate Seat

BOSTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, who holds one of the highest elective offices of any Negro in the nation, announced today his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

Brooke will go before the state Republican convention in June and enter the state primary in September seeking the nomination for the seat now held by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall.

Brooke made his announcement at a news conference called just 24 hours after Saltonstall said he will retire at the end of his present term from the seat he has held since 1944.

Saltonstall, senior Republican on the Senate Appropriations and Armed Services Committee, announced Wednesday he would not seek re-election.

He said, "I feel that it would be difficult for me to serve another six-year term with the zeal, ability and conscientiousness that I would want to serve."

Saltonstall, 73, said he had no health problem now but did not know what "it might be in five or six years."

No Health Problem: Saltonstall's retirement will leave an opening for chairman of the Senate Republican Conference and move Sen. Milton R. Young of North Dakota up as ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee. It also will make Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine the ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee.

Necessary Precaution, Bad Sign

Reactivation of Ordnance Works At Baraboo Brings Mixed Reaction

BARABOO (AP) — Defense Department orders to reactivate the Badger Ordnance Works near Baraboo after an Illinois strike threatened ammunition supplies for Viet Nam brought mixed reaction today on both military and economic fronts.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., called the resumption of production necessary to prevent an ammunition shortage resulting from the 30-day strike at another plant at East Alton, Ill.

But Rep. Vernon W. Thomson, R-Wis., a former governor in whose congressional district the plant is located, said, "The opening of the plant is an ominous sign. It would seem to indicate the trend that the war is taking—this amid all our peace feelers."

'Help Wage Scale': At nearby Portage, the president of the city council, Donald Murphy, called the reactivation "a tremendous thing" and said, "It will certainly help our wage scale."

However, Charles Monroe Jr. of Portage, president of the Columbia County Labor Council, said, "There will be people quitting good jobs to go to work there, and if it is only a temporary thing, it can cause a lot of problems."

The $200 million plant, which covers 5,000 acres of prairie land in Sauk County south of Baraboo, has been inactive since February, 1958. It produced both small arms and rocket powder during World War II and the Korean conflict.

The Defense Department made the announcement of immediate reactivation of the plant Wednesday. It was described as the only plant other than the Olin Mathieson Co. facilities at East Alton that is equipped to produce ball powder for rifle, machine gun and 20 millimeter shells for Viet Nam.

Considered Before Strike: The three unions have been on strike nearly a month at East Alton. But the Pentagon said reopening of the Badger plant had been under study before the strike.

Estimates of the period necessary to resume production at Badger ranged from three to six months. A maintenance and guard force of about 200 persons has remained at the plant during the eight-year shutdown, with some of the land leased for grazing.

Sen. Proxmire said a work force of 950 would be employed for the reactivation.

Francis J. Walsh, director of the State Employment Service, warned Wednesday night there might be difficulty in recruiting workers.

Available Workers: "In terms of total numbers of workers available, you couldn't count on several hundred or thousand from the immediate area," he said.

"There really isn't a high level of unemployment anywhere," Walsh added, but he suggested some workers might be available as the result of the American Motors Corp. lay-

MANILA (AP) — Onetime guerrilla fighter Ferdinand E. Marcos took the oath as the sixth president of the Philippines today and pledged his nation to austerity at home and greater cooperation with free nations of Asia.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey represented the United States at the inauguration. A host of other dignitaries also attended the ceremonies, which drew 50,000 Filipinos to Luneta Park beside Manila Bay and millions more to radio and television sets.

Marcos, 48, startled the festive audience with a stern speech outlining the nation's economic and political ills.

He extolled the Philippines as a democratic example to unstable nations in Asia and pledged it would stand beside "every fighter for freedom." But he warned that the nation's coffers were empty and "hard decisions" — such as sending troops to Viet Nam — must be made for the national interest of the Philippines.

Before the election last month, Marcos said he opposed sending combat troops to Viet Nam although he favored enlarging the Philippine medical unit there. After the election, he indicated he had changed his mind and was in favor of sending a combat battalion.

He did not mention Viet Nam by name in his inaugural speech but noted that freedom in Asia was being seriously endangered. He said that free Asian nations need to consult more closely and coordinate their policies to insure freedom.

Republicans Confident Johnson Decisions Will Aid Their Cause

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans will bound back to Washington next month confident that President Johnson faces decisions on Viet Nam and the economy which are likely to boost the GOP's political stock.

As Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan see it, Johnson must make the difficult choice between inflation or a slowdown in his "Great Society" programs if he is to provide the substantial increase in Viet Nam spending even the administration regards as inevitable.

There have been estimates that the rising costs of the Southeast Asia conflict may add $10 billion to the military budget in a year.

Goal for Education

Curiously, that is exactly the amount the politically powerful AFL-CIO wants the President to put into education, from elementary school to college, in the same period of time. This represents only one source of the tremendous pressures that will be brought on Johnson to keep various programs rolling in high gear.

"As I see it," Ford said, "the President has the alternative of cutting back on his domestic programs, raising taxes or rolling up a big inflationary budget."

"He certainly isn't going to recommend raising taxes. If he backs down on the programs he pushed so hard to get in the last session, he is going to undercut a lot of Democratic candidates who are depending on them for election. If he yields to inflation, he is going to hear from the country in no uncertain terms."

Supplemental Spending

Dirksen said in a separate interview he looks for an administration effort to crowd into this fiscal year, which ends next June 30, as much supplemental spending as possible. This would tend to hold down the total of the new budget to be submitted in January.

"There will be stiff opposition to any such deceptive practice," he said.

Administration officials already have estimated that current year spending will run between $105 billion and $107 billion, instead of the $99.7 billion estimated last January. Because revenues are up, they figure the June 30 deficit will range between $7 billion and $8 billion.

Republicans believe the psychological impact of a new January budget estimate of more than $100 billion in spending will dramatize their contention that Johnson is taking the country into an era of inflation.

General Cost Boost

If this is followed by increases in the prices of food, appliances, automobiles, services and all of the things the average family buys, they believe disgruntled consumers will take it out on the Democrats at the polls in congressional races next November.

To emphasize any cutbacks Johnson might make in domestic aid programs, the Republican Policy Coordinating Committee expects to have soon a report on the impact on such programs of increased Viet Nam expenditures. This presumably will spell out for the beneficiaries just what they aren't going to get if Johnson clamps down to make way for war expenditures.

Because they didn't want to be accused of displaying American disunity abroad, the Republicans on the whole have been restrained in criticizing Johnson's course in Viet Nam. They apparently have developed now a technique of urging the President on to greater military efforts and in the same voice criticizing him for getting involved in an "endless" war.

While they say they don't quarrel with Johnson's objectives, they complain that he isn't getting anywhere.

In this, the Republicans are firing at the most vulnerable point in Johnson's political defense, the accelerating commitment of U.S. manpower to jungle warfare. As American casualty lists mount, the President's problem of maintaining broad national support for his actions seems likely to become more acute.

The GOP committee has offered as its alternative a naval and air quarantine of North Viet Nam, supplemented by air and sea bombardment of "significant military targets," Dirksen said military leaders ought to pick the targets, a task that Johnson has taken over personally in the past.

Ford argued that if the quarantine - bombing strategy were carried out, the need for ground forces could be reduced. But he and other Republican leaders avoided saying what they thought might happen if U.S. warships halted Soviet supply vessels bound for Haiphong, North Viet Nam's chief port.

Dirksen, who has stood behind Johnson, indicated that he, too, is becoming more critical as the election year approaches. "We don't quarrel about being in Viet Nam," he said. "But we have a quarrel because we have been there too long without decisive results."

This obviously was aimed at capitalizing on the impatience of the average American, who wants to get a nasty job over with.

The Republicans feel perfectly free to make almost any kind of suggestion since they know they aren't going to be called upon to demonstrate that they could do a better job than Johnson in running the war.

It's the President who will get the blame if the U.S. position in Viet Nam doesn't improve by election time. While the voters never turn out a president in a war, they sometimes take out their annoyances on the candidates of his party.

The Expanded State Patrol

Although the legislature several months ago authorized the addition of 50 officers to the state traffic patrol, it appears that these additional men won't actually be assigned to road duty until nearly a year hence. The processes of government are slow. There was the business of announcing the competitive examinations, screening the applicants, conducting the tests, and certifying the candidates to the employing officers. Now there is the task of training the recruits, which is an essential step before entrusting them with the considerable responsibilities and powers the law intends them to have when they are finally commissioned.

The first of the training courses will begin in the Motor Vehicle Department's own police academy about March 1, officials have announced. That may seem a leisurely schedule of action, in view of the urgency of the highway safety problem as certified by the department's own doleful statistics and the anxiety about improvement shown by Gov. Knowles, among others. But we must suppose that there are good reasons for the calendar as set out.

The training period for the rookies lasts for 16 weeks, which implies an intensive coaching program for them. On the whole, however, the Wisconsin motor- ing public will support such careful preparation, we would guess. Our own experience with these young patrolmen has been consistently favorable, and we have found ourselves wishing sometimes that the constabularies of our smaller towns were equally trained.

At the first session of the governor's new commission on law enforcement, several of the larger city chiefs of police of the state offered their views that one of the critical problems in police administration is the recruitment of able candidates to replace men retiring more frequently because of the more attractive opportunities in the private sector of the economy.

It is suggestive, at the least, that the 50 jobs in the state patrol announced by the state bureau of personnel brought 550 candidates. The commission might find it useful to inquire what are the factors that make these positions so attractive, in these times of booming employment opportunities when the municipal police departments are evidently having their difficulties in maintaining a reliable flow of replacements.

Political Dilemma in Viet Nam

A major dilemma for the United States in Viet Nam is not only how to beat the Viet Cong without committing a great many American troops to a jungle ground war. It is also how ever to settle the political situation. Our officials have repeatedly stated that our aim is to provide the atmosphere so that the South Vietnamese can run their own government, without Communist harassment. But there is also some suspicion that free elections could even result in a Communist majority. Would we tolerate that?

The latest indication of this point of view has come from an article written for a Long Island newspaper, Newsday, by columnist Clayton Fritchey, one time special assistant to United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson. Fritchey charges that the South Vietnamese government has warned the United States that it is not ready to take part in any peace negotiations since they would mean the collapse of the Saigon regime.

This is quite reasonable. Obviously South Vietnamese political propaganda has taken the point of view that the Viet Cong must be destroyed. Sitting down around a conference table with representatives of the National Liberation Front could easily pull out support from the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. Moreover the terrorism of the Viet Cong itself is a barrier to any peaceful settlement.

Critics of our efforts to bolster the various South Vietnamese regimes have suggested that the most popular person in all of Viet Nam is the Communist leader

Ho Chi Minh. It was Ho who led the Vietnamese in their long struggle for independence from the French, a popular cause whatever the Red element. And it was the late President Diem who opposed national elections on the reasonable ground that the Communists might well win at that stage in Vietnamese history.

However, advocates of this point of view overlook the thousands of Vietnamese who fled North Viet Nam when the Geneva Accords were signed. Whatever the personal popularity of Ho, he did not have the overwhelming support of all Vietnamese. And it should also not be forgotten that Diem did win what were reasonably free elections in South Viet Nam at a time when the Vietnamese were anything but politically sophisticated toward democratic processes.

The situation today is confusing. President Johnson is well aware that his image has been tarnished by the Vietnamese war as polls indicate. Premier Ky in effect is saying that the United States must win the war or his government will collapse. If it falls anyway we could find ourselves in the position of fighting the war without even the South Vietnamese. And a successor to Ky could be either a Red sympathizer or an extremist in the other direction.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has occasionally suggested that we do not really care what sort of a government maintains control in South Viet Nam as long as it is freely chosen by the South Vietnamese. But it is quite unlikely that this includes a Communist regime.

Should Professors be Political?

The departure of McGeorge Bundy from the White House staff ends an era in history which surprisingly enough has been criticized especially in academic circles. President Kennedy brought into his government a number of professors, especially from Harvard. But others involved in education have recently decried this tendency of what one reviewer called "the corruption of academic life by its devotion to our National Purpose." This does bring up the question of exactly what the role of the educational "establishment" should be in national affairs.

Probably the most criticized among Kennedy's advisors has been Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. On the one hand he was berated for his critical attitude toward Secretary of State Dean Rusk, especially his statement that Kennedy had come to the conclusion that Rusk would have to go after the 1964 elections. But Schlesinger's greatest sin, from the academic standpoint and certainly from that of the press, was his casual lying about facts. When asked by a reporter from The New York Times about the number of troops involved in the Bay of Pigs Cuban invasion, Schlesinger gave a relatively small number, inferring that this was only another little raid. More recently when asked about the figures, he blandly replied, "Did I say that? Well, I was lying—that was the cover story." The original misstatement of fact is not as unsettling as the casual acceptance of lying as a means to an end.

Presumably the highest form of national service is that of active participation in the affairs of the federal government. At least this has been the liberal viewpoint. But the activities of professors in the Kennedy Administration does indicate that perhaps a more objective role can be played at a distance. University teachers have often complained that their duties as citizens are hampered by the view that they should not become actively involved in politics. Academic freedom is supposed to mean that a teacher's political point of view does not in any way influence his academic life or his value to his students. But the ridiculous emphasis in academic circles upon publishing, speeches and research has almost made the excellent teacher an anachronism.

It is always somewhat difficult to determine whether academic criticism of political participation is about the principle of the thing or merely because the critic disagrees with the political activity. There was a big brouhaha because of a Rutgers professor who came out in favor of victory for the Viet Cong and criticism of him was labeled another witch hunt. But when a United States Senator wanted another professor fired because of his more conservative views, there was a large silence among the defenders of the Rutgers teacher. Critics of Schlesinger's falsehood may really be outraged by the Cuban invasion or even the gradual build-up of American advisors in Viet Nam during Kennedy's term in office. It may not be so much the fact of association with the national purpose as it is the nature of the national purpose.

Whatever the criticism, we expect university professors to continue to take part in political affairs. Their contributions ought to be extensive if their educational backgrounds can be cited as criteria. But it will also continue to be obvious that objectivity must disappear with such participation and they can't have both.

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 31, 1865.

The Appleton Crescent, Sam Ryan's paper, has been enlarged to an eight-column sheet. It has no superior in the State as a local newspaper, and it is only justice to state that its politics is not of the worst order.

While it sustains the Democratic Party, treason and rank copperheadism find but little favor in its columns. Altogether it is one of the best newspapers in the State and we hope Sam will preside over its columns many a long year, adding each year to its usefulness.

Does Wisconsin's Open Primary Injure a Party; We'll Find Out

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The political question is again being raised as to whether or not the open primary hurts the chances for a party to gain victory in a general election. The casual observer would probably ascertain that there are some advantages and some disadvantages, but for sure the state will find the answer next September and November.

There is now sure to be a primary election in both parties. Even last spring Milo Knutson, former mayor of LaCrosse, threw his hat into the ring, protesting the "liberalism" of Gov. Warren Knowles. And, in the Democratic party, factionalism reigns supreme as of now, and the election will undoubtedly get down to personal issues, pitching Kennedy backed and Roman Catholic Patrick Lucey against Humphrey backed and Nelson backed David Carley, a Protestant who supported Mr. Humphrey and later Adlai Stevenson. Undoubtedly Mr. Lucey will bring the Kennedy image to Wisconsin politics, if he hasn't already, mentioning his long and close association with the Kennedy family, and Robert Kennedy can be expected to stump the state next summer and into the fall for Mr. Lucey in retrospect for the favors that Mr. Lucey performed for the late President.

at Wisconsin Rapids the coming Sunday. They were Glenn Beckert, Pat Kellogg, Delford Hanke, Lee Griswold and John Millard.

Soloists for the Stockbridge High School Band's holiday concert included Ernest Ortleib, Betty Scholfield and Ruth Heller.

The Campion dinner dance highlighted the holiday party week in Appleton with Mrs. John M. Balliet general chairman for the party. She was assisted by committee members Dr. Stephan A. Konz, Mrs. C. E. Mullen, Mrs. A. W. Trettin, Mrs. George A. Schmidt and Mrs. Joseph J. Plank.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Dec. 29, 1955.

Louis ("Hap") Waltman sold the most Christmas dates for the Appleton Kiwanis Club's fund-raising project to benefit underprivileged children. The club raised $1,500 in its annual event under the co-chairmanship of Chris Larsen and Dr. Victor Stracke. Fred Froehlich was treasurer for the project and Arnold Evans Kiwanis president.

Miss Janice Defferding was installed that evening as honored queen of Job's Daughters at the Appleton Masonic Temple. Other elective officers seated in the ceremony were Carol Black, Kaukauna, senior princess; Mary Zeh, junior princess; Judi Beglinger, guide, and Linda DeNoyer, marshal. Appointive officers included Sally Coggeshall, Diane O'Dell, Katherine McKechnie, Daryl Rae Bloedorn, Judy Fredericks, Barbara Jones, Peggy Jacobi, Nancy Bubolz, Bonnie Barlow, Susan Fulton, Bette Kriek, Bonnie Weller, Sue Richmond and Susan Foley.

dent. Robert Kennedy already threw a dinner for Pat Lucey in August which netted the Lt. Governor $90,000 toward his campaign, and a similar function is almost a certainty for next summer.

Mr. Carley, on the other hand, is a political unknown, losing the lieutenant governor race while John Reynolds won the governorship in 1962. He will be hard pressed to win the primary, but could damage Mr. Lucey's chances for the governorship if the campaign becomes bitter, which, according to present indications, seems highly likely. Anyway, the question is, does a primary tarnish the effectiveness of a candidate and his party, or does it strengthen it? Mr. Carley, the underdog, who is responsible for the primary in the Democratic party next year, says, naturally that it will strengthen the party. However, he is on the defensive and may have been forced to take that position. Mr. Lucey, while not frankly stating his views on a primary, generally seemed to think that it wouldn't help the party in its efforts to unseat Governor Knowles, which he probably said in an effort to differ with and discourage David Carley from tossing his hat into the contested nomination.

Governor Knowles will have little primary opposition in Mr. Knutson, even though this is the second time that Knutson has opposed Knowles for the nomination. The Republican party organization is solidly behind the governor, and Mr. Knutson will have to solicit funds from his own pocket and those of private individuals. Thus, he is cast in the role of a third candidate, in a sense, with just that much chance of winning the nomination over the governor.

In all likelihood, from an experienced observer who prefers to remain anonymous with all his predictions at this time, it seems as though Governor Knowles and Pat Lucey, the lieutenant governor will saw off with two months of time, between next September and November to decide the victor and the spoils. And, at this time, both of these men have good organization, promotion and support in the state and as of now it's rated a toss-up, and, as always, it's up to the electorate to decide the outcome.

Wants Return of Stolen Rabbit Trap

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Yes, I agree. There are all kinds of thieves right here in our fair city. Some thief stole into our back yard last night and took our 11-year-old son's rabbit trap. Does this teach our children how to grow up without becoming juvenile delinquents? If people steal from children, how can children grow up not wanting to steal from others? Would the person who took the trap, please return it, so our boy can have a Merry Christmas too? The trap disappeared at night, let it reappear at night. Bill received the trap from his Grandfather so feels sad about losing it.

1,000 Deaths on State Highways This Year Bring Little Reaction

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — As these lines are written, the patient workers of the Safety Division of the State Motor Vehicle Department are pondering the ghoulsh fact that the deaths in highway accidents within the state will exceed 1,000 by the year's end.

Wyngaard

It is a melancholy commentary on conditions of life and public law in an enlightened state in what is regarded as one of the most advanced civilizations in the history of the world. When Gov. Knowles discussed current state affairs in his regular news conference chat with reporters the other day, he expressed his own sorrow about the obvious failure of Wisconsin law to meet this problem, however successful public regulations have been in other phases of contemporary life. He said he hoped the news media would be able to devise more dramatic means of publicizing the problem of highway accidents and their causes.

But it was perhaps symptomatic of the problem Knowles is worried about that the reporters scarcely noted his remarks. Lamentably, the question of death on the highways has become trite. Reporters are trained to collect news. There is very little that is new about the yearly snuffing out of the lives of numbers of men and women equal to the population of scores of smaller towns in the state.

MORE LEGISLATION?

Yet the indifference of the general public is strange, in perspective.

If half a hundred persons were killed in a mine explosion or a fire or even in an epidemic of infectious disease in a state institution, there would be a public clamor echoing from one remote corner of the state to the other. Legislators would fall over each other getting out press releases condemning public officials involved, or promising new laws to prevent such disasters in the future.

The occasional homicide in this generally well-behaved state is dramatically publicized, out of the sure knowledge of news editors that such stories have a widespread appeal to the man on the street. When there is an occasional case of murder that goes unsolved, there is a tendency to put pressure upon the public protective services.

Yet there is evidence at hand about the effect of the negligence factor in the highway fatality list. The shamefully high ratio of fatalities in which liquor is demonstrably involved is one of the recent discoveries that should have had more public notice, but didn't. The whole subject of highway safety has become tedious.

ENTITLED TO NOTICE

Under the circumstances, Gov. Knowles is entitled to some favorable notice, party politics aside, for his obdurate espousal of more and stringent driver control laws. It is plain that there can be no political motivation here.

The political sophisticates know that the general public is no not attentive. They know also that when it comes to specific proposals for more effective safety legislation, powerful special interests are likely to be antagonized and to be resentful. If there is any political response in this area, the unfortunate fact probably is that it is negative.

The governor, for example, is stubbornly holding to his view that the state needs an implied consent law, which would mean that the licensed driver would consent in advance to taking a test for intoxication when arrested or forfeit his right to drive. No reasonable man who has examined the baleful statistics on intoxication and highway accidents can doubt that this would be a realistic contribution to the saving of life and limb and property. But no realistic politician, as far as can be determined on the basis of legislative roll calls thus far, has much confidence that the people care. On the other hand, he has the assurance of some potent interests that they will be angry about such a law.

Most Gamblers Really Are Playing to Lose

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

The only conceivable answer to the question, "Why doesn't the gambler quit when he's ahead?" is, that he gambles not to win, but to lose; just as the alcoholic drinks not to live, but to die.

It is worth remembering that boys who comprise juvenile gangs are highly moral creatures—with the gang; they practice the cardinal virtues, but only with each other; it is not that their morals are too "low," but that they are too narrow, and their area of loyalty does not extend to the rest of society.

Anybody who knows birds must regret the careless choice of the bald eagle as the symbol of America—for it is a lazy, treacherous and cowardly creature, despite its superficially noble appearance.

The difference between a "dress" and a "frock" is about 150 in feminesse—just as the difference between "going to the store" and "marketing" is about $50.

Surveys which show that, say, 90 per cent of Americans "believe in God" are pointless and misleading; for nothing is easier than a vague "belief" in God, and nothing is harder than acting in consonance with such a belief.

What begins as an "impossibility" turns into a "luxury," then into a "convenience," then into a "necessity," then into an "impossibility" to do without; but the rarest talent in the world is the ability to introduce elements of playfulness into work, and to put some constructive labor into our leisure.

One vocational fact is certain: when an employee shrugs off a complaint from a customer with, "I just work here," the employee should be working somewhere else, if at all.

Styles in faces change as much as, if more slowly than, styles in clothes: gaze at the faces in a college yearbook of 25 years ago, and the very expressions seem to date the subjects.

Add to our list of redundant phrases: "mental telepathy," for the word "telepathy" alone means "action of one mind on another at a distance."

Air Strip Needed So Governor Can Sign Treaty With Indians

BELO HORIZONTE, Brazil (AP) — The government of Minas Gerais State has sent a team of engineers to prepare a 1,000-meter-long landing field near the village of the Maxicalis Indians which will permit Gov. Magalhaes Pinto to put down there in his official airplane to make a treaty with the only tribe of Indians still surviving in his state.

The treaty calls for the state to give assistance to the Maxicalis to promote their financial independence through the sales of the handicrafts and to protect them from invasion of their territories and exploitation by squatters.

When their known history began in 1734, the tribe counted 700 persons living under the most primitive conditions. At present there are 273, who speak no Portuguese. Their village is on the Bahia frontier near Teofilto Otoni between the Murcuri and Jequitinhonha rivers.

Congressional Modernization Being Studied

Abolition of Seniority System Expected as Major Suggestion

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A joint committee is expected to come up early next year with a host of recommendations for modernizing Congress.

But if any proposals involve significant changes in the operation or structure of Congress, they aren't likely to get anywhere.

The 12-member committee of six senators and six representatives was created by Congress last March and was given $150,000 to finance its studies and hearings. It has held numerous public hearings and is due to go out of business on Jan. 31.

Many of the recommendations made to the committee by congressional students both inside and outside of Congress would require changes which the practical politicians don't seem ready to accept.

Seniority System

One of the dominant proposals has been to abolish the seniority system of advancement in the Senate and the House. Under the present system, a member can aspire to becoming a committee chairman or at least chairman of a major subcommittee simply by getting re-elected often enough.

Much of the clamor for a change — to rotate chairmanships or provide for election of chairmen in party caucuses — has come from members fairly well down on the seniority list. Most senior members want no change that might keep them from getting to the top or might curb their tenure once they got there. It's these older and well-established members who usually call the shots in Congress.

Stronger Staffing

Republicans, as well as non-partisan students, have advocated stronger staffing for minority members of committees. If the joint committee should adopt this proposal, Congress might go along with it. It would provide more appointive, highly paid jobs.

Congress also might go along with recommendations to provide additional staffing for individual members. This, too, would provide some more good jobs and could result in more efficient service for constituents.

The Joint Committee on Congressional Reorganization was created to see what it could do about complaints that the congressional machinery was too antiquated and needed overhauling.

1946 Recommendations

Not since 1946 has there been a congressional reorganization act. A joint committee that year made almost 40 recommendations, many of which were ignored.

Congress did approve 1946 recommendations raising its pay and making members eligible for pensions.

The 1946 act called for a reduction in the number of standing committees, but the cut was more than offset by the birth of scores of special and subcommittees.

Opponents of any major changes in the congressional machinery have a strong argument going for them. The 1965 session, operating under the 1946 framework, set a record for legislative accomplishment. Its leaders aren't too enthusiastic about tinkering with the machinery.

Smaller of Parted Twin Girls Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lisa Marie Mantonya, the smaller of Siamese twin girls born here Christmas Day, died this morning of peritonitis, a spokesman at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said.

Lisa, who weighed 4 pounds, 15½ ounces, was left without a colon after surgeons separated her from her twin, Sheila.

Both girls showed improvement following the separation until Wednesday afternoon, when Lisa's condition began to deteriorate.

Their mother, Robyn Mantonya, 20, is still at Holy Cross Hospital, at nearby San Fernando. After their birth the twins were taken to Cedars of Lebanon in Hollywood and separated in a three-hour operation. Sheila was reported still making good progress.

Money Found Blowing Around Is Counterfeit

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A $50 bill blew by a construction project. Then another. Then a $20 bill.

That started workers on a lively hunt Wednesday that turned up a shoebox stuffed with $40,000 of the bills. The money turned out to be bogus, the Solano County sheriff's office said.

The FBI is investigating.

Kindly Soul Returns Shell to Florida, But Snail Is Gone

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A Florida state park ranger found a snail in his mail.

W. F. Hogdgon, a ranger at Bahia Honda State Park in the Florida Keys, said the snail came air mail, wrapped in a moist sponge with this note:

"Enclosed you will find a snail, one of the common variety which occurs in the Florida Keys. While on vacation in Florida, I picked it up as pretty shell, too late realizing that the animal was still inside."

"Since I cannot feed it, would you please be kind enough to lay it on any grassy area so that it has a chance to survive?"

However, Hogdgon said the shell's occupant had disappeared.

Ceylon Heroes' Day Lacks Official Heroes

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Ceylon has declared Jan. 1 "National Heroes Day," but the public will have to make up its own list of heroes to honor.

The ministry of Home Affairs said it could not issue a list of heroes because it did not have the time. But it hoped to have a list by Jan. 1, 1967.

Higher Incomes

Bigger Tax Deduction Predicted for 1966

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you get a higher-than-average paycheck, the government may soon be taking a bigger bite out of it in the form of increased income tax deductions.

This would be the principal effect of a proposed overhaul of the income tax withholding system. It also would mean lower deductions for those in the lower income brackets.

The change would substitute one of three graduated withholding rates for the present flat rate. It would not change income tax rates.

No Comment

Treasury officials decline to discuss details. Presumably, the decision on whether to propose the change will be made by President Johnson. The ultimate decision will rest with Congress.

There is a possibility that the administration may use the withholding tax as an economic weapon just as it did in 1964. However, this time it would be employed to take more funds out of the hands of consumers to reduce the threat of inflation.

In 1964, the withholding rate was set lower than necessary in matter of military prudence. They are trying to learn, among other things, how much progress is being made in repairing damage from earlier U. S. attacks as well as the extent of traffic moving toward the South.

The sources also reported that U. S. Navy planes are checking on ships heading for Haiphong, North Viet Nam's chief port.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's South Vietnamese government, wrestling with the Viet Cong offer of a four-day truce for the Lunar new year celebration next month, announced a drive to encourage Viet Cong defections during the national holiday known as Tet.

The official news agency reported that the government not only will proclaim its own cease-fire shortly but will also scatter millions of safe-conduct passes in Viet Cong areas during the holiday to get Communist troops to come to the government's side.

Offer Ceasefire
The Viet Cong offered a cease-fire Jan. 20-23 to South Vietnamese government forces, and it was expected to apply also to U.

S. and other foreign troops in Viet Nam although they were not specifically mentioned.

Despite reservations, the United States is expected to join with the government in a truce.

U. S. officials anticipated a new wave of unrest among the mountain tribesmen in the central highlands following the execution Wednesday of four Montagnard leaders for their part in an abortive uprising Dec. 17-18.

Two of the independence leaders were executed in a public square in Pleiku. It became known today that two more died before a firing squad at the same time in Che Reo, 50 miles to the southeast in the mountain country.

American military officials have been trying to encourage an understanding between the government and the anti-Communist Montagnards, some of whom have been organized into good fighting units by the U. S. Special Forces. The lowland Vietnamese, who control the government, regard the tribesmen contemptuously as savages.

"They are remarkably accurate," said one gun fancier, "and they are being accepted by gun clubs for target practice."

Merchants said the Chinese rifles were more powerful and more accurate than the standard American air rifle. The Chinese rifle, they explained, uses shaped lead pellets while the American model uses solid round pellets.

The imports included 19 pistols and revolvers from Russia worth $1,616. Trade sources said most of these probably were collector's items although not antiques.

tional Control Commission dealing with Viet Nam.

There was speculation that Harriman also might visit Hungary, another third-party channel to Hanoi.

The peace quest by the two Americans was backed by the halt since Christmas in the bombing of North Viet Nam targets and by behind-the-scenes Washington efforts to probe for any peace feelers from Hanoi.

Chilling Blast

Still, their efforts came in the face of a chilling blast from the No. 1 target, Hanoi, capital of Communist North Viet Nam.

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh denounced "U.S. imperialist aggressors" Wednesday and, in a reply to a message from the Pope, declared "the U.S. leaders want war and not peace."

"The talks about unconditional negotiations made by the U.S. president," Ho charged, "are merely a maneuver to cover up his plan for war intensification and extension in Viet Nam."

U.S. diplomats rated Ho's statement, as broadcast by Radio Hanoi Wednesday as harsh, uncompromising and unchanged from his stand in the past.

Refuses to Accept

Nevertheless, they refused to accept the public North Vietnamese utterance as a final response to U.S. diplomatic efforts now under way. Some U.S. sources figure that in private soundings, Hanoi might be more likely to come through with a reply which could lead to negotiations.

Johnson promised in a Dec. 9 speech to exhaust every peace effort "before other hard steps are taken."

Under the strict secrecy imposed from the White House down since the peace campaign began, the administration has refused to say why the lull in air raids on North Viet Nam has extended into a record seventh straight day. Critics in the past — particularly in European Communist capitals — have called for a halt in the bombings to pave the way for negotiations.

Nor were those top U.S. officials who knew allowed to tell why Harriman and Goldberg showed up suddenly in Europe or where they were going next.

Courtesy Call

In Moscow, U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler paid what was described as a courtesy call on the new Soviet president, Niko- lai V. Podgorny. Russian party leader Alexander N. Sholepin is slated to visit Hanoi shortly.

However, Washington sources declined to relate this directly to the current maneuvering over negotiations to end the war.

According to U.S. authorities, the Soviets might come to a peace conference on Viet Nam because they are less interested in pushing the conflict than their Communist rival, Red China. But they would not attend unless North Viet Nam does — and Hanoi has yet to show a willingness to negotiate.

These U.S. authorities stated that while parts of Hanoi's four-point proposal for a settlement, reaffirmed Wednesday by Ho, would be negotiable, the over-all effect would be to turn over South Viet Nam to the Reds. They said the United States will not accept this and nothing can be done about negotiating the individual points until North Viet Nam agrees to negotiations.

U. S. Withdrawal

Ho's statement called for withdrawal of U.S. troops from the South — which is Washington's avowed aim following a settlement — but also demanded what U.S. diplomats said would be American endorsement of the Communist program in the South.

Meanwhile, the guerrilla com-

30-Day Flights

Dr. Berry said that Borman and Lovell adjusted so well he saw no reason why man could not attempt 30-day flights, like those planned by the Air Force in manned orbiting laboratories.

During his speech, Berry revealed for the first time that the two Gemini 7 pilots "had a feeling of standing on their heads at times during the first 24 hours of their flight."

He emphasized that "this was not disorientation."

Berry said the sensation was apparently due to an increase of blood in the upper portion of the body. "Other Gemini crews apparently have had a similar feeling, but they did not explain it as well," he added.

Before being allowed to hold a news conference, both crews went through several days of long debriefing sessions with space agency officials, doctors and various Gemini technicians. All their reports were to be completed today.

Britain, Zambia Set Sanction Deadline

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Britain and Zambia have set a time limit for economic sanctions, to bring down Rhodesia's rebel government, President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia told a news conference today.

Kaunda said that if the time limit expires without the overthrow of Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority government, military intervention will be the only solution.

Kaunda said the British government suggested the time limit. He would not say what it was.

Compromise on State Election Laws 'Difficult'

GOP, Democrats Hold Different Views On Proposals

MILWAUKEE (AP) — "It will be very difficult to compromise," said State Sen. Allen J. Busby who is chairman of a committee appointed to settle differences between the two political parties at a January meeting on state election laws.

Busby's committee, made up of three Democrats and three Republicans, will try to solve the deadlock between the Senate Republicans and Assembly Democrats on a massive bill to rewrite election laws.

Republicans want to continue to have presidential candidates on a separate ballot while the Democrats want them on the same ballot with state candidates.

Political Difference

"It's a political difference which would give the advantage to one side or the other and someone is going to have to back down," said Busby, a Milwaukee Republican.

Some Democrats believe that former Gov. John Reynolds could have been reelected in 1965 if he had been on the same ballot with President Johnson.

Busby said that the Milwaukee County election commission has prepared amendments to the election law bill, which passed both houses of the Legislature in substantially the same form except for the section on presidential ballots. A spokesman for the commission said that the proposed amendments have not been given final approval by all commission members.

Damage at $7 Million in Arizona Flood

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona's floods last week caused more than $7 million damage, the state Civil Defense director says, of which $4 million was to public property.

Gov. Sam Goddard has asked President Johnson to declare portions of Arizona as eligible for federal disaster funds.

It will be next week before the loss will be determined finally, the Civil Defense director, Col. Carl N. Smith, said Wednesday night. But he said private damage, mostly to farm lands and buildings, will exceed $3 million.

Prolonged rains and record snow combined to send swollen rivers across the desert last week.

Red Chinese Delay Russian Help for Hanoi

Want to Give Impression Moscow

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND
ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Bombing attacks by U.S. aircraft against the thin, frail, single-track rail line from Red China to North Viet Nam are yielding in unexpected political dividend, dash widening the split between the Russian and the Chinese Communists.

Evans Novak

The rail line from Kunming in Communist China to the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi has been knocked out for varying periods of time. While new bridges are constructed, the air attacks give the Chinese Communists a pretext for blocking Soviet shipments of aid to Hanoi, directly contributing to the Moscow-Peking split.

Starting early this year, the Soviet Union bitterly complained against the Chinese for failing to push along Soviet overland shipments of aid to the North Vietnamese. These shipments have to move several thousands of miles overland across the Soviet Union to the Manchurian border, then down through China to the Kunming-Hanoi spur.

So Sorry, No Cars

This year the Chinese could not blame U.S. bombing. The single-track line from Kunming (one of only two rail lines from China into North Viet Nam) was in fair working condition. U.S. bombing didn't begin until February and didn't reach that close to the Chinese border until months later.

Still, once the supplies reached Red China, they were subjected to one delay after another. The Chinese said nothing publicly about these humiliating delays. U.S. intelligence sources believe the Chinese coolly explained to the Russians that due to track conditions beyond their control, so sorry, no Soviet freight cars today.

The Russians publicly made their anger known. Doubtly so when Peking charged that Moscow had betrayed the world Communist revolution and was refusing to aid North Viet Nam.

Several months later, this Chinese harassment suddenly changed. Russian equipment and supplies poured into Hanoi at a rapid pace.

Missiles by Rail

The reason: the need for mobile SAM anti-aircraft missiles from Russia to protect Hanoi and the port of Haiphong for protection against U.S. bombers. These SAM missiles almost certainly came by rail, not by sea as originally thought. Then came the bombing of the rail spur into Hanoi, a key target in the U.S. policy of stopping the floodtide of weapons and supplies in transit across North Viet Nam to Communist units in South Viet Nam.

The bombs have been dropped closer and closer to the Chinese border and, according to intelligence reports, have repeatedly knocked out bridges. Repairs take days.

This has given the Chinese a pretext for again delaying Soviet rail shipments. Although the Chinese could move the Soviet material along the damaged track, they don't. Instead, the Chinese increase their propaganda pressure on Moscow to ship its aid to Hanoi by sea.

For months, the Chinese have been haranguing Moscow to use the sea if it really wants to help Hanoi. This shrill propaganda line is now taking the form of a dare. If the Soviet Union really wants to support the "war of liberation," say the Chinese, they should be bold enough to risk U.S. retaliation and send their military aid by sea.

Won't Risk Sea Travel

Thus far, there is strong evidence that Moscow will not risk sending military hardware (as contrasted to oil) over long, exposed sea routes—either from Soviet ports on the Black Sea, through the Suez Canal, or via Vladivostok on the Pacific. Moscow's other possible access to North Viet Nam is by air transport. Here, too, the Chinese have thrown up one obstacle after another. U.S. intelligence has reason to believe the Chinese have refused to permit unlimited air flights over China from Russia, requiring Soviet freight planes to obtain tortuous case-by-case permission from Peking to transit Chinese air space.

The reason for Communist China's harassment of Soviet aid to Hanoi is this:

Though ridiculing Moscow for having betrayed the revolution, the one thing Peking does not want is for Moscow to become

Business on Promising Spending Spree

Peace, War Scares
Occasionally Upset
Fairly Steady Market

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—American business is on a capital spending spree that shows every sign of continuing far into the new year.

Peace scares and war scares may cause tremors now and then in the stock market. But the less emotional planners of the course of industry in the months ahead tend to shrug them off.

Orders for machine tools—a symbol of business expansion and modernization—are pouring in at a rate unequalled since the Korean War.

New orders for steel products from construction companies, the railroad equipment industry and auto makers are picking up in recent days as the mills close out their biggest year ever.

Increasing Prosperity
Most machine tool makers and steel executives see little chance of order cancellations changing their prospects for increasing prosperity in the months just ahead.

Order backlogs for metal-cutting machines took a big jump in November and now require 7.9 months of operations, highest since May 1956. Backlogs for metal-forming machines soared to 10.6 months.

The National Machine Tool Builders Association says orders for both kinds of equipment totaled $1.3 billion in the first 11 months of the year, against $1.2 billion the previous year.

Some machine tool makers are saying that at the rate new orders are coming in 1966 could top 1965 by 10 per cent.

Military Stimulation

The boom to expand industry's capacity by constructing new plants or buying newer equipment for old factories has been gaining strength since summer. Part of this has been due to the belief in corporate boardrooms that industrial activity is bound to increase next year, even without further military stimulation. Part is belief that such military stimulation is inevitable and likely to increase.

But part also is due to the momentum of the nearly five years of prosperity which has used up much of the idle industrial capacity and is now putting a strain on facilities in some industries. This calls for new plants and equipment to meet the demands that 1966 is expected to provide.

Manufacturing in general has been operating ever closer to the 92 per cent of capacity which is considered the most profitable. Above that, older and inefficient plants or equipment raise production costs and cut profit margins.

Record Outlays

Plant and equipment outlays have hit a record $51 billion this year. Many observers look for at least a 12 per cent increase in such spending next year.

The flow of new orders for equipment and for the raw materials from which plants are made seem to justify such predictions.

The steel industry is still plagued by the inventory-cutting of some of its customers who built up stocks earlier in the year when a strike seemed a possibility. But new orders from those who cater to business expansion plans are picking up.

And the steel mills themselves, for all their normal slowing down in the shortened Christmas and New Year's weeks, are setting a record this year of more than 131 million tons in output. The mark they are beating is last year's record 127 million tons.

Before 1966 is very old, the mills expect orders will pick up from most customers, especially those catering to the expansion of other companies.

Hanoi's principal ally, displacing China. Every bomb that destroys a bridge on the Kunming-Hanoi rail line gives the Chinese another reason for holding up Soviet aid and every delay helps widen the Sino-want is for Moscow to become

A Little Promoting Can Help Cut 'Travel Gap'

BY SYLVIA PORTER

We will wind up 1965 with a crisis "travel gap" of around $1.9 billion — the difference between what foreign tourists spend within our borders and what U.S. tourists spend outside our borders. This sum exceeds our entire anticipated balance of payments deficit.

Despite the grim proportions of the tourist gap, though, the U.S. government does not intend to impose travel restrictions on Americans going abroad — nor does it intend to make any other special efforts to keep us and our dollars at home.

This means that if the travel gap is to be narrowed — and it must be if we are to avoid travel restrictions in the long run — it must be done by spurring more foreign travel to the U.S.

Could Do More

The U.S. Travel Service, established by Congress in 1961 to promote travel to this country, could do far more than it is now doing — but it operates on a pigmy budget of $3 million a year, equivalent to an expenditure of about 44 cents per traveler to the U.S. in 1964.

In contrast, little Ireland spends $5.2 million a year to attract tourists; Greece spends $4.6 million; even impoverished India spends more than we do. Canada's tourist promotion budget is $6.8 million annually — about 90 per cent of it aimed at the U.S. traveler — while we spend $90 to lure Canadian tourists. Our USTS headquarters staff in Washington numbers 30, compared to Canada's 187 in Ottawa.

Things to be Done

Aside from drastically boosting our national travel promotion budget (the White House Conference on International Cooperation has just recommended a new minimum of $10 million a year), here are other practical things we could do:

(1) The travel industry could and should do much more to provide accommodations, entertainment and package tours at costs foreign visitors can afford. Hotels could slash prices on rooms which otherwise would be empty and theatres could offer "visitors' rates" when seats are unfilled.

(2) Businesses could host many more international conventions. In 1964 we played host to only 60 out of the 2,300 international meetings held throughout the world by trade organizations. If we played host to as few as 150, we might add as much as $100 million a year to our tourist income.

(3) Companies could bring their foreign representatives to the U.S. for meetings — instead of always sending U.S.-based men overseas for conferences. They also could offer low-cost trips to the U.S. as incentives for overseas employees. Over the past two years the Singer Co. has brought more than 1,000 foreign employees to the U.S. by charter flights for low-cost two-week tours. Singer believes its portion of the cost has been more than covered by improved morale, better job performance, etc. Businesses also could train foreign employees here instead of overseas.

Student Exchange

(4) Universities and foundations could multiply their efforts to bring foreign teachers and students to the U.S. — through cultural exchanges, scholarships, summer courses.

(5) Individual citizens with relatives overseas could invite these relatives here for a visit — or at least do much more to welcome foreign visitors to our cities, communities, homes. What visitors from abroad want to see and experience more than anything else is the day-to-day life of Americans.

About 48 cities are now being publicized overseas as communities in which foreigners can visit Americans in their homes. This should be only a starter.

(6) Airlines could offer more charter flights to the U.S. The high cost of getting here is still a major tourist barrier.

Tourism today is the largest single item in international trade — amounting to an awesome $8 billion a year — and, as such, it is a key factor in either balancing or unbalancing a nation's financial accounts. Our share of the total is only a fraction of what it could be if we courted foreign tourists seriously and imaginatively. Court them we must. And with a tourists gap of this magnitude, our wooing must go beyond the sphere of fun and games. (All Rights Reserved)

Cigarettes Only Small Part of Air Pollution

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I read that the health authority says that the air pollution we breathe daily is equivalent to smoking two packs of cigarettes a day. Even a common, mental dishwasher like myself knows better than that. Years back when I used to smoke two packs a day I had a chronic cough and chest pains, and even coughed up blood at times.

After banishing the habit, my cough and chest pains ceased entirely, yet I'm still breathing that so-called air pollution. I also have two nieces who smoked and had troubles. When they broke the habit, they felt better, too. — T.C.

I don't know what "health authority" you are quoting, but I think he's quite a mathematician if he thinks that he can translate "air pollution" into so many cigarettes, or so many packs.

No two people smoke cigarettes just the same way. Some inhale deeply, some don't. Some light a cigarette and wave it around and throw it away half smoked. Others smoke it down to the last half inch. "Two packs a day" means different things.

So does "air pollution." All day in Madison Avenue isn't necessarily the same as all day in Brooklyn Heights. Smog on a smoggy day in Los Angeles may be miserable, but a clear day in L.A. is surely less polluted than a foggy day in Denver (and I've experienced that) or a smelly day in Bayonne, N.H., or Hammond, Ind., or passing the town dump in Kalamazoo before they installed incinerators.

Maybe in 1920 the Pilgrims could have smoked two packs a day (but they didn't have cigarettes then!) and have had no more consequences than would result from six cigarettes a day when the wind is from the wrong direction in Philadelphia or the clouds hang low over Akron. And you choose your own examples for cities where you've been but I haven't. (And I've seen a few London fogs and San Francisco sneezers.)

how much or how little air pollution there is, it's a lot worse for the fellow who adds his own personal pollution from smoking.

Two bad things are worse than one. Let's not waste too much time trying to decide which kind of air pollution is "worse." If either is harmful, let's try to reduce it.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband had a heart attack two months ago. X-rays now have revealed an enlarged heart. Does a heart ever return to normal size with proper medication, etc.? — Mrs. N. G.

A heart enlarges as part of nature's endeavor to compensate for a defect or weakness in the heart. Sometimes there may be some reduction in size if, in one manner or another, the defect is corrected, but it is not to be expected that the heart will revert to its original size.

This, however, is not very important. The important question is the degree to which the heart can return to normal ability to function. Enlargement, you see, is not in itself harmful. Rather, it is a sign of something that has happened to the heart previously.

Note to R. C. B.: Yes, children occasionally are born with cataracts, but from what you tell me, it is obvious that the poor eye still has the capability of seeing to some extent. The method of placing a patch over the good eye for a certain period each day is often used to make the poorer eye use such capacity as it has. Otherwise the better eye does ALL the work and the poorer eye does not work at all — and hence becomes still weaker.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For

Estate of $90,000 Left to Widow of Appleton Specialist

Dr. William J. Frawley, Appleton ear, eye, nose and throat specialist who died Dec. 4, 1964, left his entire $91,431 estate to his widow, Ruth, who resides at 721 W. Front St.

A final judgement of Dr. Frawley's will was filed this week in Outagamie County Court Branch 1.

The bulk of the estate, approximately $52,000, was in life insurance while the remainder was real estate and personal property.

Answers, read Dr. Molner's helpful booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. (Copyright, 1965)

Cranky Father Acts Foolishly Spanks Child for No Reason

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: Please help me convince my son-in-law that he did the wrong thing to his daughter, two and a half years old. It was two days ago, and he was supposed to be taking care of her. But he must have dozed off, because she got out of the yard, walked four blocks to school, and went in the classroom where her older sister was, and sat down.

They called home and when her father came to get her, he spanked her right there, in front of the class, and he hit her so hard that she had black and blue bruises on her buttocks the next day. She still looks frightened and bewildered.

I know a child can be ruined by such harsh punishment over something that wasn't really her fault. But my son-in-law won't listen to me.

He works every afternoon and evening and attends school almost every morning, so he's tired and nervous. So is my daughter, and neither one of them has much patience for the children these days. But that still doesn't excuse this kind of explosion, does it? Mrs. W.D.

We both know your son-in-law was wrong to get so angry when his daughter's trip proved he wasn't watching over her adequately. We both know, too, that he should not have been permitted to put on this kind of exhibition in the classroom—the teacher should have interfered promptly.

We also both know that a grown man who can't attend school and earn a living without blowing up over petty irritations with his children is in need of help and would probably be better off quitting school until he feels enough self-confidence to keep his self-control.

But your son-in-law doesn't seem to know this. And you probably can't convince him without antagonizing him.

Your mistake probably has been to make excuses for his behavior instead of looking at it for what it is. His wife is probably taking the same mistaken approach. Instead of insisting that he behave acceptably, she probably has been using his behavior as an excuse for her own childishness.

Obviously a change is in order—and it looks as if you're the only one likely to bring it about.

Try telling them point-blank that it's time they started acting like adults, not spiteful children. If they'd like some help figuring out for themselves what they're after and how they're falling themselves and their children, ask them to go to the mental health service whose name is being sent to you.

Dear Dr. Jones: Everyone agrees we have a problem with our youngest, but no one has any solution for it. It's a problem we never had with any of our other four children, now all married and living away from home, so we don't know how to account for it.

She's almost 9 years old and in excellent health, very beautiful, and outstandingly intelligent. But she still sucks her thumb avidly. Nothing has any effect on it, including comments from adults and stares from her playmates. Can you suggest anything? Mrs. E.N.

YOUNGEST CHILD PROBABLY has more need to console herself with this habit than your other children had. If you're like most parents, you're probably expecting more from her than you expected of your other children who grew up when you were younger and had more patience and strength.

Reduce the pressures on her. Make certain she has as much chance to make noise and be wild as your other youngsters had. Keep in mind that a kid can't suck her thumb at the same time that she's playing football or climbing a jungle gym.

She also is unlikely to prefer her thumb to candy or chewing gum, so make certain she has as much of these as she wants. Don't worry about her developing a sweet tooth or gaining weight—she can always lose weight and her need for sweets will decrease as she relaxes.

If she enjoys such activities, give her the materials she needs for coloring, painting, sewing, embroidering, etc. These quiet occupations often cause inner tension, however, so don't urge her to try them or to work at them, lest they increase her need to resort to her thumb.

YMCA to Offer Life Saving, Scuba Courses

Life saving and scuba diving courses for men and women will be offered by the Appleton YMCA beginning in January.

Both the junior life saving course, for children 12 to 15 years of age, and the senior course, for persons 16 years and older, are scheduled from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Saturdays beginning Jan. 9. William Korek, water safety instructor, will conduct the classes.

Instructions in the use of underwater equipment will be offered to anyone 15 years of age and older from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Thursdays, beginning Jan. 6. Equipment for the course will be furnished with the exception of fins and masks. Frank Pierri, national instructor, will conduct the course.

Persons may register by calling the YMCA office.

Milwaukee Carrier Denied Authority To Serve Fox Valley

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — In a final order of the public service commission, the Motor Transport Company of Milwaukee has again been denied authority as a common motor carrier of property between Oshkosh, Green Bay and De Pere on the one hand, and Milwaukee, West Milwaukee, Shorewood and other Milwaukee suburbs, on the other.

The regulatory agency granted such additional carrier to the authority in an order last June, whereupon competing carriers objected and insisted upon further proceedings. The commission in November deleted the desired additional authority between the Fox River Valley and in Milwaukee. In a final action, the commission has denied the appeal of Motor Transport for a rehearing on the amendment.

Research Becoming Top New Jersey Business

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Research may become New Jersey's biggest industry next year, the State Council for Research and Development says.

The council said research and development totaled $2.03 billion in 1965, up from $1.8 billion last year. It estimated the 1966 total effect on it, including comments from adults and stares from her playmates. Can you suggest anything? Mrs. E.N.

Research and development was tops in the state in 1965 with $2.2 billion in business.
